DELAY LIKELY FOR PROBE OF STOCK MARKET

If It Is Attempted at All It Will Await Disposition of Tariff

3 BILLS ARE PRESENTED

Most Members of Committee Disapprove Immediate Action on Inquiry

Washington (CPA)—An inquiry into the operation of the stock exchanges of the country is not likely at this time. If any investigation is attempted it will come after the tariff bill is out of the senate, and it is by no means certain the step will then be taken.

This impression is conveyed by members of the senate banking and currency committee, some of whom openly say they do not think the recent stock market crash is sufficiently far away to be viewed in perspective and that at the moment the business situation would not be aided by an investigation.

The committee has under consideration three separate measures by Senators Glass, King and Brookhart, respectively. It was planned that the senate committee should investigate the relationship of federal reserve credit to the bank loans on stocks and bonds and that legislation would be offered whereby the use of such credit would be restricted for this purpose.

Sentiment among a majority of the members of the committee is that nothing should be attempted now because of the agreement that the tariff shall have the attention of the senate; but when the tariff gets into conference which it is expected will be in about a month, it does not look as if a favorable vote for any regulatory legislation of this kind would be forthcoming, judging by the attitude of most of the senators.

COMPLETE BANKING GROUP

The senate banking and currency committee has recently been given some new members and the committee now is constituted as follows:

Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, chairman, and Messrs. Phipps of Colorado, Brookhart of Iowa, Goldsborough of Maryland, Townsend of Delaware, Wolcott of Connecticut, Blaine of Wisconsin, Baird of New Jersey, Grundy of Pennsylvania.

With his brother Thomas or by himself he built and operated gas, electric and street railway plants at Centralia, Evanston, Point Ashland, Menasha, Manitowish and other Wisconsin cities as well as Escanaba, Mich.

Leaving Wisconsin in 1901, Mr. Higgins went to Dixon, Ill., where he constructed an interurban line to Sterling, Ill. He came to Centralia in 1907.

OFFICERS' SLAYER TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(CP)—George W. Moore was charged with murder today in connection with the slaying last Saturday of two federal prohibition agents in an attempted raid on the Moore residence.

A warrant, holding Moore for the grand jury, was sworn to by Justice of the Peace Rickards after the verdict of a coroner's jury that Robert K. Moreau and F. R. Patterson, the slain agents, were killed by Moore "in an act of murder."

The jury's verdict came yesterday after two hours of deliberation over a hearing lasting a day and a half in which counsel for Moore contended that the agents illegally attempted to search the residence at night with a daytime warrant. Mrs. Moore and her 4-year-old daughter, Ollie, and several defense witnesses testified that the raid was attempted after nightfall.

Catlettsburg, Ky.—(CP)—One man is known to have been killed and another man was believed to be dying as the result of an explosion at the Tri-state Refining company's plant at Kenova, W. Va., just across the Big Sandy river from here.

The explosion, plainly felt here was in the trapping still and badly damaged the plant. Firemen and rescue crews have been unable to get inside the building to determine whether other men have been killed.

The dead man, who has been identified only as Robertson, was found near the building lying beside the workman who was believed to be fatally hurt and whose name could not be learned.

MANY DETAILS TO BE IRONED OUT AT MEET

Plan to Conduct Negotiations Incomplete—May Admit Reporters

London.—(CP)—Despite progress described on all sides as satisfactory, the naval conference delegates separated late today for the weekend with many details of their plans for conduct of the negotiations still incomplete.

One problem left unsolved was how far the powers should go in laying down naval programs at once without waiting decision on several questions of political relationship now under discussion.

One last conference of the day between Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, and Foreign Minister Grandi, head of the Italian delegation, lasted more than an hour and gave Italy's spokesman an opportunity to present fully the Italian plea for equality with France. The Americans made clear they were not directly concerned with this situation, but were ready to help as far as feasible in anything that would aid the success of the negotiations.

WANT NEWS MEN PRESENT

Other developments of the way included an apparent step forward in adjusting Anglo-French differences, a proposal by Secretary Stimson to consider cruisers first among the categories and an American move to admit newspaper men to all full meetings of the conference.

At the suggestion of Mr. Stimson the troublesome cruiser problem which wrecked the Geneva conference seems certain to be the first taken up in arranging details of parity of the British and American navies.

The move for the admission of correspondents at future conference meetings such as that of yesterday at St. James' palace also originated in the American delegation. Senator Robinson strongly urged such a step and Senator Reed supported him.

THINK ABANDONED AUTO USED BY BANK BANDITS

Rockford, Ill.—(CP)—Believing that a large sedan used in three daylight robberies here was the one used in the holdup yesterday of a Broadhead, Wis., bank, local authorities today were searching for a gang of bandits they believe is making Rockford headquarters while operating in northern Illinois, Iowa and southern Wisconsin.

Local officers said that three youths who robbed the Green County bank at Broadhead and fled with $2,500, answered the description of those involved in holdup of a bank at Granville, Iowa and in affairs here.

TWO OPERA STARS ARE FACING $25,000 SUIT

Chicago.—(CP)—Rosa Raisa, dramatic soprano, and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, baritone—both of the Chicago Civic Opera company—were made defendants in a $25,000 damage suit filed yesterday on behalf of the Denver, Colo., Civic Opera company.

Arthur S. Lytton, attorney representing Arthur Oberfelder, head of the Denver opera, said Rosa and Rimini had broken a contract to appear in concert in Denver last night. Money for tickets sold had not been refunded, Lytton said, causing a financial loss.

DOPE LAW VIOLATORS TO LEARN FATE TODAY

San Francisco.—(CP)—Antonio "Black Tony" Parmascina and William "Red Willie" Levin will be sentenced today on four counts of narcotics law violation and one of conspiracy. They were found guilty by a federal jury late yesterday.

Parmascina is asserted to have been connected with the New York gang of Arnold Rothstein, who was shot and fatally wounded in New York more than a year ago. Parmascina and Levin are liable to a maximum penalty of 32 years in federal penitentiary and fines of $24,000 each.

BOARD APPROVES BIG LOAN TO CREAMERIES

Washington.—(CP)—The farm board today officially announced that it had approved the application of the Grand O' Lakes Creameries, large dairy co-operative of Minneapolis, for loans and credit aggregating $1,000,000. The board announced that a loan of $1,000,000 had been approved and credit not exceeding $200,000 also will be given to enable the association to advance to its member farmers of the market price of dairy products on delivery.

Food Taken Into Indiana Flood Areas

Vincennes, Ind.—(CP)—Plans for carrying supplies by airplane to Indiana and other southern Indiana flood-marooned families in Griffin communities went forward today, while a soft, milky ice gorge at Riverport, north of here, presented a new flood threat to that community.

Immediate investigation of the Riverport problem was ordered yesterday by the war department at Washington.

Lowered levels of the Wabash river had led to belief that the normal flow of the stream was maintained underneath the ice. Yesterday, however, the river halted its fall, and the level stood at 211 feet, indicating the ice again had damaged the flow. Resulting backwater would flood added lowlands, it was said.

Experienced river men said they had never seen the Wabash in the present condition, and admitted it would do next.

Armed with copies of the Red Cross air code dropped from a plane yesterday, residents of flood swept Griffin were believed ready today to make known their relief needs. Lieutenant Paul Zartman of the Indiana National guard planned a flight over the town to observe the signals of the refugees' condition.

Fifty homes in Griffin, which was hard hit in the 1925 tornado, are isolated by flood waters. Zartman reported after yesterday's flight that the town's fuel supply appeared exhausted, no smoke was coming from the chimneys of the homes. Zero temperatures continuing in the district have virtually halted relief efforts by boats.

DEAD PILOT FREED OF BLAME IN CRASH

Coroner's Jury Holds That No One Was Responsible for Tragedy

Oceanside, Calif.—(CP)—Officially exonerated of any possible blame, Basil Russell, T. A. T. Maddux pilot whose last turn at the controls of an airplane ended in horrible death for himself and 15 others here last Sunday, has been cleared of blame.

While fellow birdmen lounge in chairs today on a lonely grave only a few miles from the site of the worst airplane disaster in the annals of American commercial aviation, a coroner's jury inquired into the cause of the disaster and held that "no one was responsible for the deaths of the victims." Adverse weather conditions, the jurors decided after hearing 20 witnesses, caused the wreck.

In the Oceanside inquiry, where the bodies of half the plane crash victims had been brought to a core of witnesses related facts and theories of the disaster.

Evidence of some error in the fate that overtook the 16 helpless bits of humanity in the catastrophic crash, was given by Dr. John J. Shaw, autopsy surgeon. The official reported that each victim had died prior to compound fractures of the skull and multiple injuries.

FATHER AND SON LOSE THEIR LIVES IN FIRE

Grand Rapids, Mich.—(CP)—A father and son lost their lives and a second son was seriously injured today in a fire which destroyed their home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The fire broke out in a two-story factory building, and its son, Robert, 12, the oldest son, James, 8, was carried from the home by his 10-year-old sister, Marjorie.

SENATE KILLS ALL EFFORTS FOR TARIFF

Borah's Move to Eliminate All Duty Under Schedule Is Upheld

Washington.—(CP)—After declining twice to approve tariffs on hides, the 19 per cent ad valorem duty carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill the senate today voted to keep hides, leather and shoes on the free list.

Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the western Republican independents, who supported the proposed increased rate on hides, moved to eliminate all tariffs on hides, leather and shoes after the hide increase was denied. The proposal carried, 43-23.

The westerners, who had fought for a higher rate on hides, turned against any duties for hides, leather and shoes after their defeat.

The house voted a rate of 10 per cent on hides, 12 1/2 to 30 per cent on leathers, and 20 per cent on shoes, but the senate roll call put all back on the free list and opened another of many disputes with the house on the tariff to be settled in conference.

Hides have been on the free list since 1904 and shoe leather and shoes have been permitted free entry since 1912.

The Borah proposal was supported by 20 Republicans, all from the west, and 25 Democrats and the lone Farmer-Labor senator, Shipstead of Minnesota.

Only four Democrats voted with the 24 Republicans from the east and midwest against returning hides, leather and shoes to the free list.

Washington.—(CP)—The senate today rejected the Oddie proposal to increase the tariff on hides above the 10 per cent ad valorem rate carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill. Hides are now on the free list. The vote was 39 to 31.

The amendment offered by Senator Oddie, Republican, Nevada, would have provided specific rates of 5 cents a pound on green hides and 8 cents on cured hides, an estimated protection three or four times greater than that provided by the house senate finance committee measures.

Pending further action the 10 per cent ad valorem rate on hides stays in the bill.

Senator Oddie then offered a modified amendment to provide rates of 4 cents a pound on green and 8 cents a pound on dried hides and demanded a record vote. The modified Oddie amendment also was voted down. The vote was 37 to 39.

SCHIRESON MAY LOSE LICENSE AS SURGEON

Chicago.—(CP)—Dr. Henry J. Schireson, who styled himself "the greatest plastic surgeon in the world," was threatened with revocation of his license today.

He was found guilty yesterday by the Illinois State Medical committee on charges of fraud, gross malpractice and character unbecoming a physician.

The charges against Schireson were brought by Miss Sadie Hill and who said the plastic surgeon, who performed an operation to straighten her low back. This operation, she charged, had necessitated the amputation of both legs.

The report of the committee, headed by Dr. M. E. Harris, president of the American Medical Association, said the operation placed a weight of 100 pounds on the patient's back and resulted in the state department of real estate and education that Schireson's license be revoked.

Former Kaiser Observes 71st Birthday At Doorn

Doorn, Holland.—(CP)—The 71st birthday anniversary of William II, former German emperor, is being observed here today. The emperor promises to be a quiet day's observer with that of a year's vacation in the occasion of his birthday.

He is the youngest of the Kaiser's children. He was born in Doorn, the largest of the Hohenzollerns seen in one place since the fall of the German monarchy.

None of the more distant relatives are expected this year. As usual, former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm is expected to come. He is said to be accompanied by the former Crown Princess Cecilie, as the former Kaiser's second wife. Her name and Cecilie have patched up their differences.

Of the other children of the former emperor, his only daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, is certain to come with her husband, Duke Ernest

Beggar Kills Cudahy Man, Wounds Wife

Milwaukee.—(CP)—Out of work and homeless, a 30-year-old laborer from the Kentucky hill country decided to fight for money and if that failed, to use force.

Today he was in jail facing a first degree murder charge a storekeeper in suburban Cudahy was dead and his wife not expected to live. They had been shot by John Amey, police announced after obtaining a full confession and corroborative details from him.

All Amey wanted was a dollar for food. He obtained nothing. Excited and suspecting a trick, he said, he killed Ben Mandelman, 33, a clothier, and critically wounded Mrs. Mandelman while their two children watched.

Then he walked out of town and down a side road, where two deputy sheriffs captured him.

According to his story, he went into the Mandelman store and asked for "a dollar for food." He said and other witnesses corroborated him, that Mrs. Mandelman went into the rear room to ask her husband. The clothier's wife told police from a hospital bed that as she and her husband walked slowly out, the assailant fired at them five times.

Amey said that Mandelman approached him, then turned suddenly and seized him. He fired three shots through his coat. All took effect. He fled down the street while an excited crowd gathered, to find the fatally wounded Mandelman shouting into a telephone for help while his wife was slumped in a chair.

His confession came after Asst. Dist. Atty. Oliver O'Boyle had decided it was useless to hold him further. Witnesses were unable to identify him definitely. After a long questioning, O'Boyle started for his office. Amey called him and said "I'll tell you all about it now." Despite the confession, police were skeptical until they were shown the bullet holes in his coat.

While plans for the funeral were being made today, the two Mandelman children, 8 and 10 years old, played in their parents' apartment. They have not realized what has happened. Taken home shortly after the slaying, they sat down to eat out of paper dolls.

RACKOW TRIAL NOW NEARING ITS CLOSE

Accused Farmer Confident of Acquittal—Jury May Get Case Tomorrow

Fond du Lac.—(CP)—Arthur Rackow, farmer on trial here for the second time for the poison death of his wife, had completely regained his self-assurance today as the case drew to a close. It is expected to be submitted to the jury Saturday.

Rackow refused to answer questions unless he was addressed as "Mr. Rackow" and otherwise appeared to be confident of victory. His counsel announced at noon that there were no more defense witnesses. Dr. E. L. Miesbach, Milwaukee poison expert, summoned by the defense, was not used and will not be, defense counsel said, unless there is an unexpected turn in the state's rebuttal testimony.

A report was received by the court today on the mysterious death of "Baby" David, found in the Rackow woods and almost buried in the first trial. Dr. W. W. Miesbach, an expert, said that it was a case of a child's death by the willful poison and that a trial should be held before proceeding with a view to padlocking the premises.

EXPECTS MODIFICATION OF PACKERS' DECREE

Chicago.—(CP)—F. Edison White, president of Armour and Company, told stockholders in annual meeting today that he had every reason to hope that the packers' consent decree would be modified some time in the near future.

He believed modification would add substantially to the company's earnings through sale of products for which the company already has handling facilities but which product it is now prohibited from handling by the consent decree.

Telling of the packers' petition in the District of Columbia Supreme court, Mr. White said: "The department of justice, representing the government, has answered our petition in a manner which practically assures the holding of a hearing on the economic aspects of the matter." Previous hearings, he pointed out, have had to do solely with the legal technicalities.

Officers and directors of the company were re-elected.

HOUSE TO ASK HER TO GIVE VIEW ON PLAN

Schafer Charges "Gag Rule" During House Committee's Debate

DORAN MAPS NEW PLAN

Prohibition Chief Says Realtors Have "Understanding" With Bureau

Washington.—(CP)—After a charge of "this rule" had evoked discussion, the house expenditure committee today overrode its chairman and voted 8 to 7 to call Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, for testimony on the Williams bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the justice department.

Representative Schafer, Republican, Wisconsin, made the charge of "gag rule" procedure after Chairman Williams had held as out of order a motion by Schafer to call Mrs. Willebrandt, who for years directed prohibition prosecutions for the government.

Schafer's motion then was put to a vote. He was sustained and Willebrandt said the decision of the committee to call her would be carried out.

Previously the committee had indulged in sharp debate over a motion by Representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri, to broaden the hearings to include any testimony that might bear on whether the treasury and justice departments in any way had failed to enforce the law. Cochran was voted down 10 to 2.

While Schafer thundered charges of "gag rule" and "steam roller methods" Willebrandt asserted that the Wisconsin member had taken up more than one-third of the time at the Senate Finance committee.

Among those appearing before the committee today were W. C. Deming, president of the Civil Service commission, and G. Aaron Youngquist, the present assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement.

ANOTHER HEARING

James C. Duke, a Washington attorney, who said he appeared as an individual, asserted before the judiciary sub-committee the proposal that United States courts be authorized to try minor liquor law cases was dangerous.

Representative Christopherson, Republican, South Dakota, who heads the judiciary sub-committee before which Duke testified, said at the outset of the hearing that it would be confined to legal phases, and that the general prohibition situation would not be taken up.

Duke accused that trials before United States commissioners would be unconstitutional and challenged statements that such trials would reduce in the long run the congestion of federal court dockets.

Duke said the legislation proposed would make it more attractive for commissioners to discharge liquor cases than to obtain convictions as he added, it would provide that they would get $1 for a conviction and $2 for dismissing a case. This, he asserted, would not bring about dry law enforcement.

DORAN MAPS PLAN

Washington.—(CP)—The Washington Evening Star today quotes Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran as saying prohibition authorities have an "understanding" with real estate owners in order to bring about amelioration of the padlock situation in connection with a decision on the Williams bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the justice department.

Doran further was quoted as saying the understanding provided that property owners and realty dealers would care and diligence with respect to the transfer of property to the justice department and that they would return dry officials to the attention of the willful poison and that a trial should be held before proceeding with a view to padlocking the premises.

The commissioner also was quoted by the Star as saying that while he had not had an opportunity to study details of the Washington board's plan that he understood it went further than that approved by any other similar organization in meeting the padlock problem by eliminating violations.

John A. Petty, executive secretary of the Washington board, today reiterated the board's action was designed solely to protect realtors and their clients from the "effect of bootlegging operations" and from the serious consequences of padlocking.

He added he had met Harry H. Cullen, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, explaining the action.

Mexico Withdraws Moscow Legation As Protest

RED RIOTING BLAMED FOR PRESENT RIFT

Soviet Charged With Trying to Discredit Mexico City Regime

Mexico City—(AP)—The entire staff of the Mexican legation at Moscow has been ordered by the Mexican government to leave Soviet Russia as a protest against communist activity against the Mexico City regime both at home and abroad.

Political circles expect the action to result in recall by the Soviet of the Russian minister in this capital, A. M. Makar. The Mexican government thus far has made no move to oblige him to leave the capital; he remained at the legation last night and refused to make any statement.

A statement by Genaro Estrada, foreign minister, revealed that the Mexican minister at Moscow had been ordered to leave several days ago and that the charge d'affaires and all others in the embassy personnel yesterday were directed to quit the Russian capital "as an act of protest."

The statement referred to recent "communist manifestations before Mexican embassies in some of the capitals on the American continents on the pretext of protesting against measures being taken here in the case of foreign agitators who interfered with Mexican domestic affairs and endeavored to disturb public order."

The statement continued: "The Mexican government has known perfectly well that this propaganda against our institutions and against the national revolution has been prepared in and directed from Moscow. It also knows that Russian communists do not act and cannot act independently because any political organization of that country is subject to the Soviet government."

After recalling that the Mexican revolutionary governments have consented to maintain friendly relations with Soviet Russia, the statement charged that "unfortunately this high conduct has been justly appreciated by the U. S. S. R."

"Instead of creating difficulties for our nationals, by circulating political propaganda among citizens and foreigners, by committing acts of violence and discourtesy or by feeling inability to understand our actions and directing in various countries manifestations against Mexican institutions and ideals, Russia has brought on situations which it is not possible nor decorous to continue tolerating with the discretion and calm we have been showing."

"As the most elementary common sense indicates the Mexican government has full right in the name of its laws and principles not to permit foreign elements to interfere with our political acts, the exercise of which our constitution and the usages of all nations reserve exclusively to nations, nor to permit said foreigners to take our territory as the theatre for their machinations and intrigues against Mexicans."

Senor Genaro Estrada declared that Mexico did not hold any of the countries where the demonstrations occurred responsible for the happenings; on the contrary in most cases full cooperation with the Mexican government in putting down the manifestations was accorded. The foreign minister's statement made no mention of the status of the Russian minister to Mexico.

PATRONAGE COMING TO BADGER WOMEN

Mrs. Thomas Is Given As- surance by Party Leaders in Washington

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Harry E. Thomas of Sheboygan, Republican national committeewoman for Wisconsin, received assurances from administration officials Thursday that the women of the Badger state need have no fear that they will not be considered in the distribution of patronage.

After a series of calls at Republican Headquarters and the White House executive offices, Mrs. Thomas said she had been told there is no special patronage committee in Wisconsin composed entirely of men, to distribute patronage during the illness of National Committeeman George Vits.

"From my conversation," Mrs. Thomas said, "I can say with assurance that the women of Wisconsin will receive recognition."

The national committeewoman's trip to Washington was for the purpose of consulting party chiefs on reports that a special committee would dispense patronage during Vits' illness but there is no information in the national capital to indicate that such a committee has been formed, or at least, that notification of one has reached responsible officials.

New York—(AP)—New wrinkles in bachelorhood luxury are in the apartment of William S. Paley, 27-year-old president of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

His new six-room Park-view pent house apartment was furnished at an estimated cost of $10,000 a room.

In a barroom a system of chromatic lighting permits the harmonizing of cocktails and illumination. In bed, without raising his head, he can tune in on the radio, turn on any combination of lights and reach any one of several hundred books.

The apartment has a piano concealed in a wall closet for keyboard, a silver tray, an aluminum staircase, a radio in each room, and in addition to other wardrobe space has racks for 100 shirts and 100 neckties.

MILWAUKEE DRIVER IS BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL AT WAUPACA

Charge of Manslaughter Against Earl Meredith Re- duced

Waupaca—(AP)—Earl Meredith, Milwaukee, was bound over to the May term of Circuit court for Waupaca on a charge of being a "hit and run driver" at a preliminary hearing before Justice S. W. Johnson at Waupaca Thursday. His bail was reduced from $2,500 to $1,000, as there was not sufficient evidence at this hearing to hold him on an original charge of manslaughter.

Meredith was arrested at Milwaukee Jan. 1 as the driver who had fatally injured Frank Penney, 70, Waupaca, farmer residing on Highway 10 west of the city, on the evening of Sept. 2, 1929. Penney died the following morning at the Christofferson hospital, Waupaca.

The hearing Thursday was a continuation of the hearing started Jan. 15 in which witnesses testified to finding Mr. Penney on the pavement and his removal to the hospital. Under Sheriff James O. Hanson was the first witness on the stand Thursday. He testified that he and Sheriff Steenbeck and Detective John Friday went to Milwaukee on Jan. 1, and returned Meredith to Waupaca.

John Friday, Milwaukee, detective, testified that he accompanied Sheriff Arthur Steenbeck and Undersheriff James O. Hanson to the home of Meredith on orders of Police Sergeant William McKemey to get some clothes for Meredith. They examined the car in the garage in the rear of Meredith's home, but he said they had permission to do so from Meredith.

He also testified that when he took Meredith to the police station to place him under arrest, Meredith had admitted driving through Waupaca on the evening of Sept. 2 on highway 10, but he did not know he had hit anyone.

Sheriff Hanson was again called to the stand and testified that he found upon examining the door of the car in Meredith's garage, that the right front door handle had been tampered with, and that there was a dent in the door which looked as if it had been made by the handle of the door.

During the hearing this afternoon, Mr. Meredith's attorney filed an affidavit claiming that Meredith had not been advised of his constitutional rights before he was questioned by the police officers, and that all statements he had made under those circumstances should not be used as evidence against him, but should be rejected by the court. Justice Johnson overruled the motion, however.

BUSINESS COMES TO AID OF CHICAGO IN CRISIS

Chicago—(AP)—A civic pool was being formed by leading business interests today on which to float the city, the county and the school board from their "no funds" dilemma.

The pool will be for the purpose of buying $50,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants, and this sum will be enough, according to officials, to run the local governmental bodies until the reassessment is completed and 1929 tax bills collected. The citizens' relief committee, under the chairmanship of Silas H. Strawn, is organizing the pool.

Mr. Strawn explained that large businesses, public utilities and railroads have on deposit in the banks large sums of money to meet the 1925 tax roll. It is planned to use this money in the purchase of the anticipation warrants which later can be redeemed by the several concerns in payment of their taxes. The present estimate is that the 1928 taxes will not be collectable before May 1.

PLANES CARRY FOOD AND FUEL TO FLOOD AREA

Arkansas Reporter De- scribes Suffering in In- undated Regions

Note: The following story of the water bound, ice blocked area near Big Lake, Ark., was written by Jack Boudurant, reporter for the Memphis Evening Appeal. He and William Day, photographer, flew with Charles Hays over the isolated area and dropped food and fuel to the marooned inhabitants.

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—From a plane—the only method of contact—food and fuel have been dropped for the first time to some of the more than 200 families held prisoners by flood and ice in the inundated Big Lake area of northeastern Arkansas.

And through crude signals arranged by notes attached to blocks of wood and hurled down at cabin doors, we learned that the families face near starvation unless help reaches them soon.

In the ship were sacks of charcoal and small sacks of flour, bought at Elytheville when we learned we couldn't reach the Red Cross house supply yesterday.

A house where no smoke was seen coming from chimneys was aroused by diving low and raising as much racket as possible with the motor.

Persons appeared at windows and doors and we dived low in front of them. Down went the first note which read: "If you need food, we have something white. If you need fuel, we have something dark."

On either side of the swollen Roseland ditch could be seen cabins, in sight and yet out of reach of the boats. Three miles below Red Cross headquarters, ice blocked the boat. Two crews were chopping lanes through the ice.

But almost as fast as the lane was opened floating ice rushing down the ditch would block it and the crews would be forced to turn and chop their own way out.

About 100 feet above the Red Cross headquarters is a break in the levee. Water rushes and boils through it against the main bridge on the Elytheville-Jonesboro highway.

To the east the highway is blocked by a wall of ice. To the west water is rushing over it at a depth ranging from two to eight inches.

And the water still is rising in some places.

One rescue crew in a boat, found 30 persons living in a one room cabin.

Fear For 1,100 Survivors Ashore In Bleak Territory

Buenos Aires—(AP)—Some apprehension was felt here today for the comfort of the 1,100 passengers of the tourist ship Monte Cervantes which Wednesday afternoon struck a rock in beagle channels, Tierra del Fuego.

The passengers and the crew, numbering about 1,500 altogether, abandoned the ship and were put ashore by the Argentine war transport Vicente Fidel Lopez near Ushuaia, headquarters of the government of the Argentine section of the islands.

Ushuaia is the seat of a penal settlement, inmates of which include the most notorious criminals of this country. The Argentine government never demands a death sentence. The worst of the malefactors, instead, are sentenced to live in the bleak community on the tip of the continent.

There are few buildings at Ushuaia except the long closed structures of an old mission station and a few stores and residences, hardly affording accommodation for so many as abandoned the Monte Cervantes. The Monte Sarmiento, sister ship of the Monte Cervantes, was ordered by the Hamburg-Sud-America line, owners of the vessels, to discharge her passengers at Montevideo, Uruguay, and to proceed immediately to Ushuaia to pick up the stranded tourists.

The rescue ship will stop at Mar del Plata, an overnight run from Montevideo, to take aboard three officials of the line with relief supplies for the shipwrecked victims. It is expected to reach Ushuaia Monday and to have the rescue persons back in Buenos Aires a week from tomorrow. Since the Monte Sarmiento has accommodations for only 600 passengers its accommodations will be greatly taxed.

The war transport Vicente Fidel Lopez and eight small craft of the navy are helping to salvage supplies of the Monte Cervantes. The liner struck a rock, opening a big hole in the bow through which water rapidly flooded the fore part of the ship, which now is submerged aft with the propellers remaining out of the water. It is expected the ship will be a total loss.

SEVEN MEN INJURED IN TAXI STRIKE FIGHTS

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Seven men were injured today in fights resulting from a strike of taxicab drivers that has tied up cab service here for the past 12 days.

Police answered several riot calls this morning and broke up clashes between strikers sympathizers and non-striker cabs. A group of 25 men came here from outside the city to obtain employment. A group of 25 men on their way from the Pennsylvania Railroad station to a coal company garage were stopped as they marched through the downtown district. A window in a bank building was broken.

The injured men were taken to hospitals. Some of them were stabbed. Few arrests were made, but soon after the outbreak, city and county officers were patrolling the streets to prevent further disorders.

in a half dozen children were among them. They were eating the last of their food supply—a small strip of raw meat.

On either side of the swollen Roseland ditch could be seen cabins, in sight and yet out of reach of the boats. Three miles below Red Cross headquarters, ice blocked the boat. Two crews were chopping lanes through the ice.

But almost as fast as the lane was opened floating ice rushing down the ditch would block it and the crews would be forced to turn and chop their own way out.

About 100 feet above the Red Cross headquarters is a break in the levee. Water rushes and boils through it against the main bridge on the Elytheville-Jonesboro highway.

To the east the highway is blocked by a wall of ice. To the west water is rushing over it at a depth ranging from two to eight inches.

And the water still is rising in some places.

RESCUE CREWS CUT WAY TO FLOOD SUFFERERS

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Rescue crews began hacking their way through frozen flood waters in north-east Arkansas today, in an effort to bring relief to 200 cold and hungry families marooned in the Big Lake area.

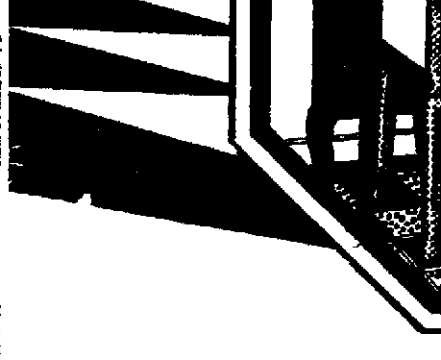

In sturdy boats built to battle the treacherous floods of the stricken region the rescuers pushed slowly forward through openings made in the ice with axes. Food, medicine and fuel were aboard.

All those rescued were taken to a camp at Roseland and cared for by the Red Cross.

Although the situation was most acute in the Big Lake area, where 10 levees broke and flooded thousands of acres, it continued serious down the St. Francis river basin where hundreds of livestock froze to death or drowned.

The pilot of an airplane who flew over the stricken area yesterday, reported that he owned 27 houses where persons could be seen crowded about windows or perched on the roofs. He dropped food and fuel.

PASTORAL MEETING IS LEADING CHURCH EVENT DURING WEEK

Lutheran Ministers from Fox River Valley Attend Conference Here

The Fox River Valley pastoral conference at St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church Tuesday and Wednesday was one of the most important church events in the city during the past week. Lutheran ministers from all over the valley attended.

St. Paul church also held its annual meeting last week, and on Tuesday Holy Communion was administered. Another annual meeting was held at Mount Olive church last Sunday.

The important mid-week service at the congregational church was the first of a series of six Church Night programs on Thursday night, when members of the congregation enrolled in one of the four classes offered by Dr. H. E. Peabody, the Rev. W. W. Sloan, Dr. John W. Wilson, and Prof. Louis Baker. The moving picture Sunday night was "Heritage of Faith," with the singing of negro spirituals by the quartet and congregation.

At the Methodist church the first vesper service of the season was held. Dr. Owen Rowe O'Neil, lecturer from South Africa, told vivid tales of his adventures in the savage Swaziland. A number of new Social Union captains held luncheons for their members during the week, and the John McNaughton class held a "house party."

Thursday night the Rev. Philip Schneider conducted a preparatory service for Holy Communion, to be given Sunday, at Emmanuel Evangelical church. The quarterly conference was held after the prayer service.

The Rev. R. A. Garrison of the Presbyterian church preached on "Ten Years of Prohibition at the mid-week service Thursday evening. Sunday morning he will deliver a sermon entitled "Romance of Missions." The old-fashioned Christian Endeavor meeting at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was one of the most interesting meetings of the entire year.

In the absence of the Rev. H. S. Gately, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, the Rev. John A. Evans of St. Chrysostomus church, Chicago, conducted both services at that church Sunday. The Rev. Gately was attending the dedication of the church he founded in Missoula, Mont.

The newly elected deacons and trustees were installed at the Sunday morning service at Trinity English Lutheran church, and Wednesday evening the Brotherhood held a supper.

A special meeting of the Ladies society and the Relief society of Zion Lutheran church was held Thursday afternoon.

In Seven Days Fiery, Itching Skin. Gets Sure Relief

There is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by chemists at trifling cost, that will do more toward helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin disease than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of Eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of "hives," itch, salt rheum, and other skin eruptions and inflammation.

You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) in the original bottle at Schmitz Bros., Appleton and Menasha or any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.

Hatry, London Promoter, Gets 14-Year Prison Term

THREE OTHERS IN FRAUD CASE ALSO SENT UP

Three of Four Defendants Change Their Pleas and Admit Guilt

London (AP)—Clarence Hatry, for many years head of the widespread Hatry interests, was sentenced to 14 years' penal servitude in the old Bailey court today, on charges of defrauding five years on charges of defrauding, and two years on a charge of conspiracy, all sentences to run concurrently.

Edmund Daniels, co-defendant with Hatry, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, two years on another count and another five years on a second indictment, all to run concurrently.

John Graham Dixon, the third co-defendant, received five years of penal servitude and two years of hard labor as well as a further period of five years' penal servitude all to run concurrently.

Hatry, Daniels and Dixon today had entered pleas of guilty on all counts except the conspiracy charges. They had previously entered a not guilty plea but decided to follow a new course today. Tatlor pleaded not guilty to all the charges against him.

The development was most surprising to those close to the trial. The four men were on trial for alleged financial frauds involving nearly $2,000,000 (about $10,000,000).

CRASH HAD WIDE EFFECT
The financial collapse of the Hatry companies several months ago, which was serious enough to depress the entire market in London and have its repercussions even as far as New York, re-awakened public interest in the hectic career of the promoter.

His first strike which brought him notice in the financial district was when he bought and re-organized city equitable fire insurance company in a deal that involved something like a million dollars. He was only 25 years old at the time and only a few years before he had been an obscure clerk in an insurance office.

By the time he was 40 he had established a reputation as a brilliant financier and was particularly active in the post-war boom, one of his most important deals being the acquisition of the commercial bank of London. The bank was given a new name and was used as a base for the negotiation of other deals involving more than $150,000,000.

In 1924 the boom came to an end and one of Hatry's industries wound up with a loss of about $15,000,000. Hatry soon came back, however, and resumed his promotion work with such a strong position financially that he was able to acquire the Steel Industries of Great Britain, Limited, with a capitalization of $40,000,000.

Last fall the Hatry companies crashed on the stock exchange and Hatry soon after was arrested on charges of stock frauds, and several co-defendants being accused of financial frauds involving nearly $10,000,000. Their trial opened several days ago and until today had been a sensational case, with many money involving fabulous sums and indicating the colossal financial structure which Hatry had reared.

HERE ARE TEN BEST BOOKS OF THE MONTH
Ten books are rated the outstanding books of February by the group of eastern librarians who each month compile such a list.

They are "Daughters of Eve," Gamaliel Bradford, including studies of such famous women as Nino de Lenoles, Madame de Maintenon, Madame Guyon, Mademoiselle de Lespinasse, Catherine the Great, George Sand and Sarah Bernhardt; "The Story of a Woman's Life," by Grace C. Lisle, the desperately real story of a woman's life—her marriage, her husband's death, and her fight for her children; "The First Mrs. Fraser," St. John Ervine, about a middle-aged woman who refuses to allow others to arrange her life for her; "Goodbye to All That," Robert Graves, an autobiography telling the experiences of the writer; Sherman, Soldier, Realist, American, by H. Liddell Hart, a keen and original estimate of a forceful and dramatic figure; "Coronet," Manuel Komroff, telling the travels of a beautiful coronet until it finally figures at the wedding of the daughter of a Chicago millionaire; "The Iron Man and the Tin Woman," Stephen Leacock, an amusing but kindly burlesque on the transformations of modern life; "Australia Felix," Henry Handel Richardson, a picture of Australia in the days of the gold rush; "Firehead," Lois Ridge, a long narrative poem of great beauty and power with the Crucifixion and Resurrection as the theme; "All Our Yesterdays," H. M. Tomlinson, a poem about the war, giving "a breathing story of a nation's soul in conflict."

The Oldtimer Asks...

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN—
The "Itch" was more or less epidemic among the Appleton kids and what a long time it took to satisfy our folks by sulphur or other ointments, anointments at night and hot baths in the morning, that we were really over it?

Our mothers used to seem to take delight in "voyages of discovery" with a fine toothed comb on our heads?

We used to seem to have to dig out the wood ticks that had burrowed into some part of our anatomy?

We swam across the river for the first time and how proud we were?

There was a sleet storm in the winter and a coat of ice covered the snow on the ground so we could skate for miles across the country and coast down the hills along the ravines and river banks on our skates at an angle—not daring to coast straight down—bearing up the hill when we got going too fast and when we wanted to speed up a little dropping down the hill nearer to the straight down and when we got to the bottom walking up the hill side-step, on our skates and doing it all over again?

CHARGES ATTORNEY ATTEMPTED TO GET BLACKMAIL MONEY

Glen Barto, on Stand in His Own Defense, Tells of Alleged Demands

Charges that Charles Velte, Neenah attorney, had tried to blackmail him, made by Glen Barto, another Neenah attorney facing outstanding charges, at Friday morning's hearing of the charges against Barto at the courthouse. Barto was on the witness stand in his own defense.

He claimed that Velte asked him for $200 or threatened to "ruin my business." Barto also charged that at another time Velte came to his office with a stenographer and Police Chief Watts of Neenah and demanded $50.

Velte is the man who brought charges against Barto with the Wisconsin Bar association which led that body to ask the state supreme court to oust Barto. E. C. Fiedler, who has been hearing the testimony in the case, was appointed by the supreme court as referee. Spencer Haven, Hudson attorney, is the prosecutor, and Henry Fitzgibbons, Neenasha, is defending Barto.

Charges against Barto include the use of unethical practices, overcharging clients, and attempting to bribe an officer.

Dr. D. J. Ryan, Neenah, testified that he saw Barto and Velte talking together in the hall outside Barto's office on the day Barto claimed Velte demanded $200.

Two Appleton attorneys, Mark Catlin and Homer H. Benton, testified that they thought a list of itemized charges made by Barto against his clients were reasonable. The attorneys however, did not know whether Barto had actually performed the services listed.

The defense attorney, Henry Fitzgibbons, was instructed to advertise for bids on the addition. Mr. Appleton will set the date for receiving bids later. The committee also approved plans for a small fuel and gasoline storehouse to be erected at the county barns, and bids will be sought on this building.

The committee instructed Mr. Appleton to rent county trucks and snow plows to towns at the rate of $4 per hour whenever the trucks are not needed on county work.

After a short discussion on a proposed wage scale for Outagamie county road workers the committee decided to lay this matter over until the next meeting and Mr. Appleton was instructed to investigate the wages being paid to workers in other counties in this vicinity.

"HELL SHIP" GIVEN TO FLAMES AFTER STRENUOUS CAREER
San Francisco (AP)—The gallant old barkentine City of Sydney, once the pride of the Pacific but later known as the "hell ship" of the Alaska fishing trade, has closed its colorful career in flames on the coast of Alaska.

Stripped of what was worth salvaging, the old craft was drenched with gasoline by city firemen and set ablaze yesterday.

A history both glorious and violent was recalled with the vessel's passing. Built in Chester, Pa., in 1875, the City of Sydney was the belle of wind jammers in the Pacific mail service to the Orient. Later she entered the Alaska fishing trade.

During this period, in May, 1925, when the vessel was anchored off Sausalito preparatory to making the annual northern run, seamen escaping from the ship told tales of wild, drunken orgies aboard and the City of Sydney became known as the "hell ship." Two members of her crew were arrested on charge of selling narcotics following the incident.

Recently she was sold in the Orient, but was found unworthy and was resold to wreckers, who wrote "Dins" on her log.

ORGANIZED LABOR TAKES BROADCAST FIGHT TO CONGRESS

Claims That Radio Commission Has Discriminated Against Its Station

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington (CFA)—Organized labor's futile fight for adequate representation in broadcasting is being carried to congress in the hope that something will be done for the cause.

Decrying the use of practically all available channels purely for entertainment purposes, Hope Thompson, counsel for the American Federation of Labor, told the senate interstate commerce committee that the radio commission had discriminated against labor.

Station WCFL, at Chicago, operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor, but backed by the American Federation, is limping along as a regional station during daylight hours only, and with only 1,500 watts, he asserted. Repeated efforts to obtain a cleared channel, full time, with the maximum power of 50,000 watts, so that the station might be used as labor's national mouthpiece have been resisted by the commission he charged.

Mr. Thompson, who for two years has argued the labor cause before the commission and congressional committees, said the last refusal of the commission is the basis of litigation pending before the court of appeals here. The commission denied its application, he stated, because its programs did not have the general public appeal of those of other stations in the select category.

Educational programs would be the main material used by WCFL if it had the assignment it desires, Mr. Thompson declared.

"I think it would be of greatest importance that this entire field of communications be kept entirely free of private domination," he declared.

The person or group which controls radio broadcasting in years to come will control this nation. I believe it is the duty of congress to save broadcasting from where it is going, but I think it has got away from you already."

In the appeals case now pending before the court, the commission held that testimony adduced against WCFL, showed that it was a commercial station, and devoted very little of its time to labor, as such. It alleged also that the station was a "propaganda" outlet, and that it had accepted "quack medicine" advertising programs, and broadcast phonograph records without announcing them.

It does away with eating from mess kits while at Douglas.

The army has been decorated for the affair. Lunch will be served.

Mrs. Ross Says Tea Cup Isn't Political Medium

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, does not believe in the efficacy of the tea cup as a medium for effective political organization among members of her sex.

And Mrs. Ross is not unfamiliar with the subject of tea and politics, for, as she said in a statement today, when she was elected Wyoming's first woman governor there were suggestions "that the state house would become the seat of a pink tea government." Besides that, she added, she loves tea and tea parties.

"I was interested and at the same time amused," she said, to learn that Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, successor to Mrs. Alvin T. Hart as director of the woman's division of the Republican party, announces as her basic principle of organization a tea service for every county committee woman and states that "political results of far-reaching importance will be reached while women drink tea."

"It is a delightful thought, and I wish that I had as easy a solution for the organization of the Democratic women. Unfortunately, I find that they are more interested in doctrine than in the tea cup, more concerned with what the tariff threatens to do with the family budget, than in the pleasant gossip over the cup that cheers."

She expressed the hope that "we are a long way past the period when tea can be substituted for political argument," and added that "I very much fear the 5 o'clock teas as a campaign feature would confirm rather than dissipate such an unfavorable opinion 'as that which she said attended her election as governor."

"I love tea and tea parties," the Democratic vice chairman conceded, "but I have found during my political experience that the gentle pleasures of social entertainment lie in a field far away from the practical matter of gaining converts, and it is only by gaining converts from the other side that political success may be obtained."

TOWN OF CICERO TO KEEP ROADS OPEN
Owner of Scraper Is Employed for Winter by Highway Superintendent

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour—The town of Cicero is one of two or three townships in Outagamie county that has decided to keep all side roads open this winter. Another township that did so last winter and is doing so again is the town of Maine.

Haze Deml, town of Maine, owner of a road scraper, was employed by Emil W. Mueller, road superintendent of the town of Cicero, to open the roads open this winter. Mr. Deml opened all the side roads, the first time this winter, working 10 hours on Friday, four and a half hours on Saturday, and eight hours on Monday.

Under conditions no more serious than the present, Mr. Mueller says that it is comparatively easy to keep the roads open and inexpensive. The plan gives all farmers of the township access to the main roads, keeping the side roads open equalizes the advantages of open main highways, among farmers, and is said to be exceedingly popular even among farmers that live on the trunk highways.

Heretofore the chief objection to keeping the main highways open in winter was that the great majority of farmers who have been paying the costs of open highways did so without getting any service as they were shut off from the open roads during the winter. If the township, generally, decide to keep their side roads open, the chief objection will disappear as it already has in the towns of Cicero and Maine.

BYRD PARTY FACES NO FOOD SHORTAGE, MANAGER DECLARES

No Immediate Prospect That Men Will Be Put on Reduced Rations

New York (AP)—Captain H. H. Bailey, personal representative of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, in a statement published today, said that although an ice pack hauled ships of the expedition from reaching the base on the Antarctic ice barrier, Admiral Byrd and his men faced no immediate food shortage.

The statement, published in the New York Times, which is sponsoring the expedition with associated newspapers said:

"While it is true that the expedition is not fully equipped to spend another winter in the arctic, there is no immediate shortage of the food supply. There is ample fuel for heat and for operation of the radio. The men are not on reduced rations. There is no immediate prospect that they will be. They are well clothed, comfortably housed."

"In extreme circumstances an adequate supply of whale seal, porpoise and walrus blubber, which might have to rely upon such a diet over a prolonged period would scarcely count it a pleasant experience."

"It is believed that, through the kindly offices of the state department, which has instructed the American ambassador at London and the American minister at Oslo to seek the cooperation of the whaling companies whose vessels are now fishing in the Ross sea, a navigable passage to the Bay of Whales will be discovered or, if necessary, forced."

SITUATION MAY CHANGE
"The period of greatest separation of the ice in the Ross sea is in February. It is possible, therefore, that the present impenetrable condition of the ice pack may be so altered within the next ten days that Admiral Byrd's vessels will be able to proceed south under their own power to his base on the ice barrier."

Admiral Byrd's present position is exactly that of a cool, wise commander taking preliminary precautions for the safety of a numerous and important expedition.

"His friends await the outcome with confidence and without fear."

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Arctic explorer, expressed the opinion that the Byrd expedition had a three to one chance to come out of the Antarctic this year, but added that being caught by pack ice was so frequent an experience of Arctic and Antarctic explorers that it might be regarded almost as a normal experience.

He said pack ice has caught one-half of the expeditions that have penetrated the frozen regions near the poles.

There was no cause for alarm, he said, even if the expedition found itself marooned on the ice barrier until next year, adding, that while it might be a bitter disappointment to men anxious to get home, it would afford an opportunity for further scientific observation.

He cited his own experience in 1917 when he was held until the next year north of Prince Patrick island in the Arctic and the experiences of Roald Amundsen who with a fleet of New Bedford whaling vessels was caught in an ice pack near King William island.

It happens occasionally, he said, that an expedition's ship is trapped in the ice for two years, but even then if good judgment is used there is no excessive danger. The loss of 22 members of the Greeley expedition in the early eighties he said was because they abandoned their food supplies and set out in small boats. Only seven survived.

FIRST ROBIN OF YEAR SEEN ON GREEN BAY-ST
Now is the time for all good Appletonians to come to the aid of their fair city and the defense of its climate by watching for robins, for open season on robin "spotting" is herewith declared. Paul Renner, 121 E. Pacific-st., reported seeing a robin Thursday noon at the end of Green Bay-st. hill. The robin seemed in no immediate danger of freezing to death in spite of the sub-zero weather. A pair of blue jays were seen by him at almost the same spot just a week ago.

WARGIN INSURANCE NOT LIKELY TO AID VICTIMS
Milwaukee (AP)—The revelation that insurance totaling $17,000 has been paid to Mrs. Lee Wargin, widow of the steamship agent who committed suicide today to betoken no hope for hundreds who were victimized by Wargin.

Mrs. Wargin has left Milwaukee and could not be located today. Assistant District Attorney John P. Flit said that slight chance remains that any of this insurance money will be obtained for the victims, many of whom are poor Polish persons who paid out life savings to bring relatives here from the old country. There is no legal obligation for the widow to make good her husband's default.

Strengthen Base Of Pisa's Tower To Prevent Collapse

Pisa, Italy (AP)—The leaning tower of Pisa, lodestone of the American tourist who visits Italy, is to be strengthened at its base in order to prevent its leaning too far over and crashing.

A meeting of the special commission appointed by the minister of national education, including the best engineers in the kingdom, decided that two methods are to be pursued, as a result of findings made in the last several months.

One consists in making the basin from which the tower rises impermeable, so that water cannot seep through and eat at the foundation of the town. The second consists in the gradual consolidation and strengthening of the ground around and under the monument. This would be done with reinforced concrete.

At the same time, help has been suggested from another quarter. A priest, Father G. B. Piccardi, has obtained considerable acclaim in Italy by straightening leaning church towers. He accomplished the feat of returning the tower of the parish church at Morazzone to a vertical position, after engineers had said it was in danger of falling and advised that it be dynamited.

This he did in two hours, with the assistance of a number of workmen. The tower was 129 feet high and weighed 70 tons. How he did it remains a mystery. He told an interviewer he used "only a little sand and nothing more." Now his name has been mentioned in connection with the leaning tower of Pisa.

The tower at present is 14 feet out of the perpendicular. Engineers say it leans because during construction the ground on the south side fell. An inclination in the opposite direction from the third story up, then followed. The tower is 169 feet high, has eight stories, and is surrounded by colonnades, and was built between 1174 and 1350.

Two years ago engineers declared that the degree of inclination was increasing, and the tower was in grave danger of falling. Experts then adopted the temporary expedient of shooting cement into the earth under the tower. Now, however, more permanent measures are necessary.

SOMMERS' FORMER WIFE TAKES STAND IN $10,000 SUIT
Says She Was Only Friendly to Man Sued for Alienating Her Love

Miss Gertrude Burgess, former wife of Otto Sommers, New London, was a defense witness Friday morning in her former husband's suit for $10,000 damages from William Riese, Black Creek, on a charge that Riese alienated his former wife's affections.

Miss Burgess denied that there was ever anything wrong between herself and Riese. She said Riese had never tried to persuade her to leave her husband, but that there existed merely a friendship between them. Miss Burgess testified that she left her husband because he was engaging in the liquor business and because he falsely accused her of wrong-doing with other men. She also said that he had been cruel to her and she finally decided not to stand for it any longer.

Sommers claims that his wife got a divorce because Riese influenced her to do so, and he also charged Riese enticed her to Pennsylvania where she went when she left him.

CALL SURPRISE WITNESS
A surprise witness, Mrs. Louise Quartana, Milwaukee, was put on the stand Friday morning by the defense to tell of her marriage to Sommers before he wedded Miss Burgess. Previously on the witness stand Sommers claimed he had never been married before he married Miss Burgess. Mrs. Quartana said she and Sommers were married in Waukegan, Ill., and that Sommers is the father of her 18-year-old son.

Martin Abrahams, Oscar Hilker, Mrs. Hilker, Helen Richter and George Barth, all neighbors of the Sommers when they lived at New London, testified that they had seen Riese visit the Sommers home several times.

One of the charges made by Sommers is that Riese often visited his wife at their home during his absence.

The neighbors said Riese often stayed at the Sommers home for hours. They testified they had timed him.

Miss Anna Langanhausen, who was employed as a maid by Mrs. Riese at his home in Black Creek, said Mrs. Sommers had visited Riese's home and that she heard Riese call Mrs. Sommers by telephone several times.

VISITED HIS DAUGHTER
Miss Burgess said that she was a friend of Mr. Riese's daughter and that she visited the Riese home and saw the girl and not Mr. Riese. She said she met the Riese family through her husband who invited Mr. Riese into their home at New London for a drink. Riese had been overseeing the installation of a cult in the early eighties he said was because they abandoned their food supplies and set out in small boats. Only seven survived.

TAX DELINQUENCIES TO DELAY LAND INVENTORY
Madison (AP)—The land inventory being carried on in northern Wisconsin will be delayed until the boards of several counties have studied tax delinquencies, county forestry and consolidation of townships, the Department of Agriculture and Markets has announced.

Decision to make economic surveys of several northern counties followed a recent meeting of the commission with representatives of the College of Agriculture. The land inventory has been completed in Wisconsin and is almost finished in Wisconsin.

The boards which will make a study before the inventory is continued are those of Ashland, Sawyer, Oneida, and Taylor-co. The instruction staff will include the land survey staff, the county agricultural agent, town chairman, town assessors, forestry experts, county clerks and county treasurers.

Such a survey is being made in Marinette-co and the state department of agriculture said that work will begin in Ashland-co upon its completion.

USED RAILROAD IS OFFERED FOR SALE FOR ONLY $45,000

Line Between Highland Junction and Highland in Bad Condition

BY RUBY BLACK
Post-Crescent Wash. Corrs.

Washington—If anybody wants a used railroad in Wisconsin, there is a bargain sale on for the next 30 days.

The railroad up for sale at $45,000, which has cost its owners $1,096,429 and the investment in it is appraised by the Interstate Commerce commission at $624,156, admits it is rotten, however.

In an application to abandon its line between Highland Junction and Highland, Wis., just granted by the Interstate Commerce commission, the Mineral Point and Northern railway company declared that its ties, concrete sidings, tracks and all equipment were all in wretched condition. It would take $50,000 to replace the ties alone, the road said and it needs water stations and locomotives. Rehabilitation would cost $125,000, the commission said. It has only one locomotive now. It had to cut down the speed of its trains to 20 miles an hour and 10 miles around curves because of its bad condition.

But the communities the road serves wanted the road to continue operation, bad as it is. Representatives of Linden and Highland insist that the road's service has contributed to the growth of the towns and that its abandonment would seriously handicap the future development of the cheese, feed and livestock industries there. The commission held that they could use trucks over the highways to the nearest railroad station.

When the road was built, it carried a good tonnage of zinc ore, but only one mine is left on its route now.

Although the 6,669 people in the territory served by the road seem to have wanted the road to continue, only 21 passengers took advantage of its service in the last four months before the road filed application for permission to abandon the line and it carried only 240 tons of freight in the first nine months of last year, according to the application.

The road is 4.2 miles long.

In granting permission to abandon the line, the Interstate Commerce commission held a period of 30 days in which the company could sell its road or any portion of it to any person, firm, or corporation desiring and offering to purchase it for continued operation on the basis of a price of $45,000 for the entire owned property, including all equipment, appurtenances, supplies, etc. But the purchaser cannot operate it in interstate commerce until the commission grants permission.

John J. Cox of Granville, Ill., has offered to buy the railroad at "the highest price that may be quoted" and to continue its operation.

CITY OFFICIALS PRAY THAT STORMS WILL STAY AWAY

Children who have banked with child-like intensity on a summer picnic, or the hostess who has planned a lawn party, know the disappointment of awakening to a rainy, stormy morning. The concern of city officials right now over weather conditions is comparable, for the arrival of snow will be as crushing to city officials as a rainy morning is to pleasure-seeking children.

If there are no more storms during January, declares Mayor A. C. Rule, the city will be about $6,000 ahead on the street cleaning budget. By this time last year between $5,000 and $6,000 has been spent on snow removal. Constant storms made it necessary to get additional equipment and men, but this year city equipment adequately handled the only storm, and it was necessary to hire only 10 extra men. The mayor estimates that less than $200 has been spent so far this year.

BLACK AND BROWN SUITS OF PUQUE ARE HERE

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press

New York —(C.P.A.)—Spring can't be far behind since black and brown suits of puque are already making attentive appearance in the shops. They look delightfully cool for the warm days which, believe it or not, are on the way hither. A refreshing feature of these suits is the dotted swiss blouse, in a variety of colors.

Now the cotton goods, which some time ago began a drive to get into the aristocracy—and succeeded—have even reached the hand-bag circle. These new cotton hand-bags are intended as accessories for the cotton dresses, which they match. Sometimes, in their coloring or mounting, they also match the hat and shoes. This is among the happiest thoughts of the spring season.

Expect Another Big Drop In Cheese Prices

Cheese prices, which are three to five cents a pound lower than a year ago, are expected to drop still lower during the next three months, according to information received from the National Cheese Producers federation. The federation is urging cooperative organizations to prevent such conditions in the future.

The production of cheese in Wisconsin for 1929 was about 15 per cent less than for 1928, and cheese stocks in the United States on Jan. 1 of this year were less than on Jan. 1 of last year by nearly 20,000,000 pounds. Despite low production and smaller stocks on hand, prices are lower.

Operators of the cheese board, who favor lower prices, declare that cheese prices should go low enough so that milk made into cheese is not more than when made into other products. At the present time the farmer is receiving from 25 to 40 cents per hundred pounds of milk, but he did a year ago 40 to 45 cents.

Cheese operators contend that these prices are 10 per cent lower than two or three years ago, but in a near future we soon will have a normally big increase in cheese production. The result will be a big increase.

GRANT KOHLER COMPANY REFUND OF $21,467

Washington—A tax refund of $21,467.29 to the Kohler company, owned by Gov. Walter J. Kohler, was announced today by the treasury department.

The refunds are made on income taxes for 1923 and 1925 because the bureau of internal revenue allowed additional deductions for the proper amount of state taxes, since after a thorough full investigation it is determined that the deductions were not related on the returns filed by the Kohler company.

In 1925, the treasurer credited the Kohler company with $8,920.42 and in 1923 $12,546.87 and for 1925 $21,467.29.

The refunds will then force prices to a point lower than we now have.

LAW AND CUSTOMS
We read the following enterprising political philosophy from the Chicago Tribune: "Laws which are contrary to custom are laws imposed by a superior, are tyranny, whether that superior be a transient majority, or minority, or representative body acting contrary to custom and common consent. Such laws are never effectual, because they run counter to the underlying principle of free government."

This theory is advanced in support of the campaign against prohibition, a campaign by the way up to this time not very well conceived or executed. It has been too much overdone to get results. The maxims laid down in the editorial excerpts we have quoted are, however, quite applicable to prohibition, and go a long way to sustain the argument against its validity. But the principle itself is not sound and its statement is not only misleading, but is encouraging to individuals who wish to make their own wishes and will superior to the law and the rights of their fellow-citizens.

Many instances can be cited where a custom generally accepted was eventually done away with by law, and properly so, when a majority so determined. We cannot have majority rule on any other assumption or practice. Slavery in this country was doomed from the beginning because it was inherently wrong. No amount of custom or habit could justify it, and with or without the Civil War, majority opinion would finally have compelled by law its abolition. A great many sanitary regulations have been imposed on minorities by majorities, against long and well settled practices. We had anti-spitting laws long before this custom was discarded by educational or voluntary action, and innumerable arrests were made before it was respected and obeyed.

The underlying principle of free government is majority rule, and this without qualification. If the majority is tyrannical, it will in time be turned into a minority. Certain protective rights may be allotted to minorities, but in the background this is a nation of majority rule, and must so continue if it is to exist. When the practices or customs of a country become definitely repulsive or objectionable to a decisive majority, they either have to be abolished, or if then becomes a question of major interest and welfare vs. minority interest and welfare.

The reactions against abuse of power are the constant safety valve and security of a nation governed as is that of the United States. It may be true in a general way that laws are the outgrowth of customs but that is far from universal. In very many cases customs grow up from conformity to laws soundly and wisely originated. In any event, it is the right of the majority to make the laws and of a specified number to alter the constitution, and no amount of sophistry or unfortunate exercise of power can destroy its inherent correctness.

GOWNS FROM PARIS
Parisian shopkeepers are said to be worried by the new attitude of American visitors. Our women tourists are not buying there as they used to. They become harder and harder to please. If they like the goods, they don't like the prices. And they are not so crazy about the French styles any more. They hesitate and go away without purchasing.
Nothing is wrong, apparently, but the American women have learned something. They explain in confidence that they "can buy better gowns at home for the same money, and not worry about the customs."

Some go farther, and say that if they want French gowns, they can take a good look at the French styles and make their own outfits when they get home. Dressmaking is simpler than it used to be, good taste is more widespread, and American women have a knack of "throwing things together" and getting a hundred-dollar effect for ten dollars.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS
There has been a strange change in the status of investment trusts, or rather in Wall street's attitude toward them. And the public, to some extent, reflects that attitude. "Before the gay boom broke," says B. C. Forbes, New York business writer, "it was sufficient for any first-rate or second-rate or even third-rate Wall street firm to announce a new investment trust offering, to send the stock 20 or 30 or 40 points above the figure the insiders were pledged to subscribe at. No easier way had ever been discovered to make profits in half the twinkling of an eye. It was notoriously a case of 'trust' rather than 'investment.' Lo, nothing is more distrusted today than these so-called alluring securities. They are now selling ex-trust, ex-glamor, ex-vapor. More than one respectably-sponsored investment trust stock has been selling for less than the amount of actual hard cash reposing in the treasury."

It is a situation that many outsiders feared before the big break, though few suspected that the deflation of this new get-rich system would come so quick or proceed so far. The pity is that so many worthy and legitimate investment trusts have suffered along with the blue-sky type. But "Wall street gets that way," remarks the writer. "It sees either the doughnut without the hole, or the hole without the doughnut."

AIR SAFETY
Clarence H. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, is in charge of investigations of aircraft accidents. Summing up conditions in the first half of 1929, he says that more than half the crashes of that period were caused by over-confidence and over-zealousness on the part of pilots. Airplanes, like automobiles, are better and safer than heretofore, but human carelessness remains about the same.

Every airplane accident, particularly those involving a number of lives, receives much publicity. Its tragedy looms up larger in the reader's mind than the great amount of safe flying that goes on almost unnoticed all the time. As proof of his statement that flying is much safer these days, Mr. Young points out that in the first half of 1929 there was one fatal accident for every 442,430 miles flown. In the same period in 1928 there was a fatal accident for every 169,944 miles. The record for regular transport-lines is still better, with only one death to a million miles of flight.

Aviation authorities are not resting content with these records. It is a safe prophecy that year by year there will be more miles flown with fewer accidents to transport planes. The outlook may not be so good for safety in general, because privately owned planes are likely to increase in numbers and will be harder to bring under safety regulations.

NAVIES BY AGREEMENT
More important than the tonnage of war vessels or the number of them, any one nation wants or has, according to Walter Lippmann, editor of the New York World, is the fact that the nations represented in the London conference, are working on the new principle that armaments are a matter of international agreement.

The principle was established by the Washington conference. Before that the nations considered their armament their own business and expected other nations to keep hands off. Since then the nations have agreed, in theory at least, that each nation "ought to lay its program before the other nations, and that before it could carry out that program it must prove to them that it is a reasonable program."

Such agreement will help to eliminate international suspicions and fears. Eventually, it is hoped, it will help to eliminate war itself. With this in mind the haggling and bargaining over details become less important, the ultimate purpose more important and success more hopeful.

Today's Anniversary
UNION ARSENAL SEIZED
On January 24, 1861, the state of Georgia authorized the seizure of the federal arsenal at Augusta and also Forts Pulaski and Jackson. This action, following closely that state's vote for secession, was one of the important events which foreshadowed the Civil War.
Coincident with this belligerent gesture on the part of the Georgians came the seizure of important federal properties in other southern states. The federal arsenals at Charleston, S. C., Mobile, Ala., and Baton Rouge, La., all heavily garrisoned, were among the principal Union possessions to fall into the clutches of the Secessionists.
So it came to pass that before Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated, the southern states had captured most of the 39 defensive fortifications in their territory. The forts, with the 3,000 guns they were estimated to contain, represented a $20,000,000 seizure.
This date in history also commemorates the ordering of the Battleship Maine to Cuba, after public feeling in the United States was aroused by the terrible state of suffering in Cuba resulting from Spanish methods of dealing with the insurrection there.

PART 2—THE COMPLETE OBLITERATION OF TONSILS
To my mind the new method did not seem possible until I saw it applied. Even then, I was skeptical about the permanency of the effects. But I waited, and watched, examined the patients at intervals after they had received diathermy (electro-coagulation, electro-coagulation, endothermy) treatment for enlarged or infected tonsils. Now I am convinced that the method is quite as efficacious in disposing of all tonsil tissue, whether it be merely hypertrophied or definitely infected as is the most radical surgery.
This new method is available only here and there—I can't tell you just where, but only the most progressive and competent men in the community are using it, as yet. It is of course tedious compared with the ordinary tonsillectomy—I gather the average patient must return to the doctor a dozen times, at intervals of several days, so achieve complete obliteration of the tonsils. With a skilled operator the treatments are practically painless, and with a patient who isn't unduly "nervous" or unmanageable it is unnecessary to use even a local anesthetic. This is a feature I couldn't understand, and I don't understand now, but I know it is so.
Notwithstanding the optimistic ideas the rank and file of the medical profession entertain about radical surgical removal of the tonsils, there are plenty of tragic accidents, complications and sequelae associated with these operations, especially when general anesthesia is used. All these drawbacks are avoided when the new method is available. This feature, I believe, more than compensates for the tediousness of the new method. Then, too, the new method is a bloodless one—a feature which makes it the only method applicable in cases where bleeding is to be avoided.
In view of the bad impression broadcast by the strangely edited medical journal I think it is only fair to point out that the young Chicago doctors based their conclusions largely upon some unsatisfactory experience one of them had had when he tried out some kind of electrical method eight or 19 years ago. Of course that was not a criterion of the present method. And at that time the younger of the two doctors had not yet graduated from medical school, so that his views are obviously whatever his senior colleague now thinks. It does not mean to imply that these Chicago doctors who condemned the method are not good doctors. I merely suggest that they do not qualify as expert witnesses, and their conclusions or views of the question should not have much weight with physicians who seek only the hard facts.
I have examined many throats at various intervals after the radical surgical removal of tonsils, enough to know that the imposing talk of surgeons and their specialists about the thoroughness and completeness of their operations is just imposing talk. I have as yet had the opportunity to examine only a few throats at intervals after obliteration of the tonsils by diathermy, but enough to convince me that I should choose this new method for mine, if my tonsils were giving me trouble—and no one can accuse me of any lack of appreciation of, or any doubt about the great value of radical surgery when the conditions demand it. I'd as soon have another appendix operation any time, now that I know just what it is like. But I'm a bit ticklish about my tonsils. I think I'd prefer diathermy for them, if you don't mind.

HERE'S A NEW GAME
Can you advise me how to prevent acidosis? My dentist refers me to a doctor. My doctor refers me to the dentist. My teeth are decaying fast, and the dentist says it is caused by acidosis. (Mrs. K. D.)
Answer—This game, passing the buck, grows apace with frenzied specialist in Bunceoland. A dentist who surmises that such a condition is due to "acidosis" probably receives too many slide magazines. Only quacks ascribe ill health of any description to "acidosis." This new fangled term is used mainly by short cut healers and other gentry in the mail order field for trimming the "acidosis" and, I am not denying that "acidosis" occurs; it is a feature, an effect, of various disease conditions. I merely assert that no honest or competent physician would try to make a patient believe that "acidosis" is the cause of any departure from health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
I saw in Iron and Tea Club
I saw in your column some time ago where some reader praised the effect of using "iron and tea" to darken her graying hair. You said it was made by dissolving a piece of copper in the size of a chestnut in a pint of black tea, and moistening the hair with this every day or as often as one desired. Please tell me how much tea to use to the pint. (Mrs. A. O. P.)
Answer—Madame, if it were convenient I'd be glad to run around and apply the lotion for you. Black tea is a thing I hate and the less of it to the pint the better, in my opinion. But judging by the frightful appearance and the atrocious odor of the stuff, I should estimate that they generally use about 18 pounds to the pint. For making this harmless lotion for darkening gray hair I imagine a spoonful or two of the tea is enough to use in the pint. Some members of the I. & T. club report satisfaction, and others report disappointment with the method. Probably a good deal depends on the care and skill with which it is used. In any case, it is perfectly safe.
For the past five years, property owners, automobile owners, and bus manufacturers, have been waging war on the trolley car. The bus has certain advantages. It is almost noiseless, and that commends it to property owners along the street, which it serves. When it stops, it pulls up to the curb. This commends it to the motor car driver who is irked by ordinariness for blocking him congestion, the busses will not relieve congestion, because there will be no t of them.
The case for a poleless substitution of buses for electric cars is therefore unconvincing. Our cities, considered as a whole, are far from being obsolete. In fact they are indispensable. The surface cars in New York alone carry 40 per cent of the total traffic. Say nothing of all the subways. Any talk of a general discarding of the street car is idle. The time has not yet come that the bus can supplant them.

THE CASE OF STREET CAR
Editor Post-Crescent—There is an honest belief in many uninformed minds that the time has come to junk all electric street cars, in some larger cities and in quite a few smaller cities. The belief must rest upon a misunderstanding of the facts. The statistics indicate in larger cities, that the time is far distant when street cars will become obsolete. For example in Chicago the street cars still carry 95 per cent of the total number of passengers carried by the two systems. The following table shows the figures of 1928 for Chicago's transportation system.

Surface Lines	207,864,233 or 18 per cent
Bus Lines	$2,514,620 or 77 per cent
Total	61,536,233 or 95 per cent
Total	1,162,515,091

In spite of the many handicaps under which they operate, the electric street cars are still a highly important factor in the city's transportation system. The lines, considered as a whole, are far from being obsolete. In fact they are indispensable. The surface cars in New York alone carry 40 per cent of the total traffic. Say nothing of all the subways. Any talk of a general discarding of the street car is idle. The time has not yet come that the bus can supplant them.

YOUNG MATRON IS STAUNCH FRIEND OF NEW KONJOLA

Tells How Famed Medicine Speedily Ended Dread Rheumatism — All Else Failed

MRS. LILLIAN DAWSON

"Konjola was a Godsend to me. I don't know what I would have done had it not been for Konjola," said Mrs. Lillian Dawson, Raymond, Ia., near Waterloo. "My health was rapidly slipping away from me and no matter what medicines I took I failed to get the slightest relief. Rheumatism made life miserable. This ailment settled mostly in my shoulders, making the muscles and joints sore and stiff. The aches and pains were terrible. I was also subject to splitting headaches and had no appetite.

"I secured several bottles of Konjola and started with the treatment after reading so many sincere endorsements. At the end of the first week, I realized that, at last, I was on the right track. In just three weeks I was free from rheumatism. My appetite returned and I have not had a single headache since. I owe all this new and glorious health to Konjola.

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Sullivan Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE gazed at the voice at the other end of the telephone line answered with the words, "City Jail."

"I was supposed to call your number and ask for Corinne Merryman," she managed to explain.

"Just a minute," the voice sang out, quite as though it were the most natural thing in the world for young girls to be receiving calls at the police station. A minute later Corinne answered.

"Sue, can you come here right away?" she asked. "If I don't get out by noon Mother will wonder where I am and I don't want her to know."

"But, Corinne, what did you do? How did you get in? What happened? Did you have an accident?"

"You're too curious," her sister's worried voice came back. "I was driving Bob's old rattle-trap and I forgot all about a stop-light. I don't see why it was there, anyway. But a policeman didn't see my point at all, even when I pleaded and coaxed."

"What do you have to do to get out?" Sue asked.

"Give bond. Then this afternoon appear in court. Have you got any money?"

"I'll be there in two minutes," Sue promised and hung up.

Her pocketbook contained less than a dollar, she knew, and Corinne's bond would cost at least $25.

Then she remembered that her two weeks' salary was due the next day. It would more than meet it. But did she dare ask Judge Thornton for an advance? She consulted Miss Parsons.

"If I had it, I'd give it to you," the older woman said. "I don't know what Judge Thornton will do. But I think he'll be kind about it. It's not a good policy, though, to ask that type of favor."

"What else could I do?" Sue asked.

"Let the child sit there until afternoon. She'll get off without the five-dollar fine, all right, and it would do her good." She put a fresh sheet of typewriting paper in her machine and snapped it down decisively. That snap decided Sue. She knocked on Judge Thornton's office door.

"I want to ask a favor," she began, when he had graciously motioned her to a chair. "I . . . wonder if . . ."

"A half holiday?" he finished for her, eyes twinkling under gray bushy eyebrows. "Of course you may have it."

"Thank you," she smiled. "It isn't a holiday. It's an advance of $25 of my salary, please."

The judge eyed her thoughtfully for a few seconds that seemed like long minutes to the waiting girl. When he answered, there was rather a pitying look in his expression.

"I've been wondering, Miss Merryman, if perhaps you haven't been trying to keep up with a procession you can't afford. This request for an advance confirms my suspicion and gives me an opportunity to speak. I always dislike to see anyone play for too high stakes."

that foolish talk. Why, we all would be all tired out before we walked a mile.

"Go right ahead and find a plan," said Coppy. "If you think you can. But I'll admit that I am stuck. Our poor old bike is out of whack. I only wish that I was back in snowbound land, where we could find someone to bring us cheer."

Then Coppy spoke up. "Aw, let's smile. 'Twill all turn out right, after while. It does no good to fuss and fret. That only makes us mad. Let's all wish that someone will come to fix our bike and make it hum. Then, if we get our wish, instead of peevish, we'll feel glad."

Just then a voice exclaimed, "Hi, ho! Your little bike will shortly go." He bounced upon the scene. Said he, "I guess you do not like me 'cause I chanced to mess your bike. You'll find I'm not so mean."

STREET WATCHES REDISCOUNT RATE TO BASE ACTION

Statements of Leading Banks Are Published Every Thursday

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—On Thursday the rediscount policies of the federal reserve bank of New York and that of the Bank of England are established. On the same day of the week both institutions publish the statements on which these policies are based. The figures of the Bank of France also appear at that time. So Wall Street has come to depend for guidance in money affairs on what may develop there although with the brokers' loan situation now comfortable, the Thursday statement of the federal reserve bank no longer exercises an influence in the making of speculative commitments in stocks.

Thursday the financial district once more prepared for a reduction in the bank of England rate from 5 per cent to 4 1/2 per cent. Again it was disappointed. The governor of the Bank of England stood pat on their money policy. While an increase in good over the week previous of more than $3,000,000 was shown, it was felt inexpedient to drop the rate below the level for some weeks. There is political pressure as well as from industrial circles for easier bank rate in London in order to stimulate domestic trade and reduce the number of the English unemployed.

WAITING FOR LEAD?
The argument is that as the gold holdings of the Bank of England have now recovered above the level of $750,000,000, established by the Conville committee as a minimum, following a gain of over $100,000, 000 in the past four months, the logic of the situation favors a reduced rate. But the governors of the bank do not see it that way.
They usually act according to banking traditions and not from compulsion from the outside. In the past they have followed the lead of the federal reserve bank of New York on rates and may be waiting for this now.

The decline in sterling exchange of nearly two cents a pound in the last six weeks has carried it so far away from the "gold point" that there is no immediate prospect of building up Bank of England gold reserves out of the supply of yellow metal in this country. London has been getting gold from Spain in connection with the efforts to stabilize Spanish exchange. A certain proportion of new gold is arriving each week from South Africa.
The drain to France and to Germany has about ceased. France, however, continues to build up her gold reserve, which was higher than ever this week. An American Banker who has been closely identified with the Young plan and with settling up the bank of international settlements expressed the sentiment that it is about time France made use of her tremendous gold supplies financial aid to the rest of the world, as did the United States when

To Reduce The Legs And Waistline And To Strengthen Abdomen Muscles

BY JAC AUER
One of the best exercises to reduce the legs and waistline and to strengthen the abdomen muscles at the same time is the vertical leg stretch.

This exercise is good because it tones up the muscles as reducing goes on and eliminates the possibilities of flabby flesh which has no place in the 1930 contour.

Reducing methods that do not strengthen and tone up the body are a mistake. For after the pounds come off, the loose flesh is apt to hang in unattractive rolls.

The vertical leg stretch is admirable for this. It is done as follows:

1. Get down on the floor on your hands and knees, with your body horizontal above the floor.
2. Keeping both your hands in place and your head well up, raise your left leg high in the air and backward. Stretch it up as far as possible.
3. Then return to knee stand and change legs. Raise the right leg high in the air and backward and stretch
it. To get the proper stretch through the waistline and the leg keep your head well up.

Do this exercise five times on each leg. It is necessary to keep the head well up and really stretch the leg to its utmost to get the best results. But when well done, this exercise is an excellent aid to suppleness as well as a weight reducer.

gold was pouring into this country from nearly every part of Europe and South America two years ago.

There is a wide difference of opinion on the advisability of reduction in the federal reserve of New York rediscount rate from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent. Those who look at the situation from a strictly banking standpoint feel that reserve bank borrowings are still too high to justify a 4 per cent figure. Although bulls discounted on Jan. 17 were down to 442,356,000, a decrease of over 50 per cent in the past seven weeks, and compared with $821, 824,000 a year ago, it is felt that they should go considerably lower before the money situation throughout the country is again comfortable. The total bills and securities of all of the federal reserve banks last week were $1,259,823,000. Students of this situation seem to feel that this figure should get below $1,000, 000,000 before the federal reserve board seriously considers reducing its rate.

The other view is that with securities deflated and open market rates here approximately 4 per cent, it would be a good policy to bring the federal reserve rate down to 4 per cent, as a stimulus to the bond market and to general business. This may be regarded as the political attitude which has been in opposition to that of the banker many times in recent years. Of the two it is thought that the Washington easy money advocates have the best chance of winning out and that their policy of a lower rate will be in effect within the next two weeks.

MILK FURNISHES BODY ELECTRICITY

Fat Globules Are Negatively Charged, Experiments Prove

Madison —(AP)—Everytime a person drinks milk he consumes, perhaps quite unknowingly, an amount of electricity, the results of experiments by two scientists at the University of Wisconsin indicate.

H. H. Sommer and G. C. North, dairy specialists at the college of agriculture, have made the surprising discovery that milk contains electricity.

During the past year experiments conducted by the specialists have definitely shown that the fat globules in milk are negatively charged.
Heating above 142 degrees, they found weakened the electrical charge. Ageing accomplished the same result.

Certain chemicals added to the milk produce an effect which tends to increase the strength of the charges, the scientists report. They said they were led to the investigation by the theory that many accurences in milk and dairy products about which little is known might be influenced by the electrical charges carried in fat globules.

The addition of lime salts and iron chloride to milk and cream reduced the potency of the fat globules charges, the experimenters found.
On the other hand, the addition of sodium citrate and disodium phosphate strengthened the charges.

With the weakening of the charges in a bottle of milk, the cream line thickens. Fat globules of aged cream, it was discovered, cluster together more than do those of fresh cream and the increase in clumping is due to reduction in the potency of the electrical charge carried by fat globules.

In a similar manner, the addition of substances which add to the "stickiness" of cream, weaken the negative charges of the globules, according to Mr. Sommer.

EVIDENCE DIFFERS IN RUM SHOOTING

Officer Says Wounded Man Made Move Toward Hip—
Latter Denies Tale

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Investigators of the shooting of a Wyandotte boatman by a customs border patrolman today had before them diametrically contradictory stories from the two principals.

The story of the patrolman, Clarence
B. Hopper, apparently was accepted by Col. H. A. Pickett, collector of customs, and other federal officials. Hopper said that he fired as the boatman, Walter Grund, attempted a move toward his hip after being caught in the act of throwing sacks filled with bottles. The shooting occurred late Wednesday night.

Hopper, however, was relieved of active patrol duty pending completion of investigation by federal and state authorities, and was assigned to the customs base.

Grund, who is at a Wyandotte hospital with a bullet wound in his stomach, was reported to be showing signs of improvement early today. Physicians had said that he saw little chance for him to recover.
The wounded man's story was that he was shot without warning. Hopper and his fellow officer, William H. Redford, said that Grund had been warned of their approach by a lookout. Redford, he said, fired

BOARDER COW LOSS IS POINTED OUT TO FARMERS OF COUNTY

Animals Producing Under 200 Pounds of Fat Make no Profit

BY W. F. WINSEY

Neenah—Thirty-five men and women, owners of winter egg producing flocks attended the Farmers' Institute in the city hall Thursday. The institute was conducted by County Agent O. P. Cuff and A. A. Brown, egg and poultry marketing experts of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Mr. Brown predicted that eggs, because of small flocks and scattered production cannot be marketed so profitably as readily as butter, cheese and livestock. He announced, however, that the Land O' Lakes Creameries is making a business of collecting eggs on two days each week from patrons and marketing them, and that the National Cheese Producers' Federation is considering the adoption of the egg marketing plan. Mr. Brown's subjects were "The Chick Raiser," "Grading Eggs for the Market and Diseases of Chickens," "Mr. Cuff advised the elimination of all boarder cows from the herds of Winnebago and the adoption of side lines in farming, including raising of hogs, fattening steers with rough feed, and raising cash crops, such as cabbage.

"Everybody is sympathizing with the farmer and wanting some form of farm relief," said Mr. Cuff. "We wonder what is wrong with farming."

"The first generation cleared the land, fenced the fields and built shanties. The next generation came along, cleared more of the land but put better houses and barns. The third generation filled the fields with cattle. These three generations own the farms of from $15,000 to $25,000. Before a farmer can realize any profit on his farm he must get $2 per cow for his work and five per cent on his investment.

HOW PROFITS VARY
"It is difficult for him to get that wage and that interest on his investment with the kind of cows he usually has in his herd. Figures show that the net profit of a 400 pound cow is $73 a year; of a 300 pound cow, $56 a year; of a 200 pound cow $42; of a 150 pound cow $23; of a 100 pound cow $8 a year; of a 50 pound cow, a loss in a year of $10; of a 100 pound cow a loss in a year of $23.

"Reports of 10,000 cows tested in cow testing associations and Outagamie produced 200 pounds of butterfat yearly. The average cow in Winnebago produces, perhaps from 75 to 200 pounds of butterfat.

"The low production average of cows in Outagamie and Winnebago and in all the counties of the state tells in convincing form what is wrong with the farmer."

"Because the majority of farmers do not test their cows for butterfat production, trained cattle buyers select the best producing cows in the herds and leave the lowest producers for the farmer to use in making the interest on his investment and the daily wages for himself. His poorest cows stay with him for the foundation of his herd."

"Suppose a farmer wants to purchase a sire to improve his herd. He goes to a neighbor and buys a calf of a 200 pound cow that a buyer did not want and left in the herd. How far will a farmer get in building up his herd with a bull from a dam of that production. Why not sell off our low producing cows or those below 200 pounds and not let the buyers run off with all of our high producing cows? Why not weed out our poorest cows, and feed steers with our surplus feed."

"Why not try some hogs in the place of cows that do not pay for their feed? If we are as careful in raising hogs as we are with our cows we will find that hogs will pay well."

"Although the profits from poultry pay the taxes on Wisconsin farms and eggs furnish three-fourths of poultry profits, I have no concrete example of how to get high prices for eggs," said Mr. Brown.

EGG MARKETING BEHIND
"Egg marketing today is at the point reached by butter marketing 20 years ago. I doubt if we shall ever see the cooperative marketing of eggs in Wisconsin as egg production on the farms is only a side issue and the large commercial egg producers are too few and too widely separated to join in a plan of cooperative marketing."

"The only way that we can market eggs cooperatively is in connection with the cooperative marketing of some other farm product. The Land O' Lakes Creameries is now collecting eggs from the patrons two days each week and marketing them. The National Cheese Producers' Federation is considering the marketing of eggs for its members."

"New eggs of all sizes, colors and qualities are mixed and marketed. The greatest improvement that can be made is in the grading of eggs and marketing them by grades and weight. When that improvement is made the producer will be paid for the kind of eggs he delivers and the consumer will get the grade of eggs he wants."

"Last year the Department of Marketing received a number of complaints from dealers about the large percentage of pullets' eggs in shipments. They are getting away from the plan of pooling eggs and paying as much for inferior eggs as for the best. The producer who markets large, clean, perfect eggs should get a higher price than the producer who markets inferior eggs."

"About 40 per cent of the eggs now marketed are in first class condition. Between these two extremes are all grades of eggs. If we would take

The temporary organization was made permanent with C. A. Loeschler as president; E. F. Meyer, vice president; E. G. Zabel, secretary; and William Campbell, treasurer.

A board of directors consisting of the officers and E. E. Lampert, J. O. Kuehl, William Chudacoff, E. J. Hoffensperger and E. F. Sacker was elected. The reason for changing its name is because other cities in Fox River valley also are organizing. C. A. Loeschler, president, presided. He announced that the $12 contributions made at the last meeting will be converted into memberships and it was decided to send $2.50 of it as a contribution to station KVVH and to place the remainder in the treasury for educational purposes. It was brought out that the membership at present is approximately 60 and that ultimately it will be increased to 100.

Upon motion it was decided to send a telegram to President Hoover and to each of the senators and congressmen similar to the one forwarded to the president by the Appleton association.

STRESSES FRIENDSHIP

The speaker of the evening was Prof. W. C. Springate of Oshkosh, whose subject was "Team Work and the Spirit of Cooperation. The speaker stressed both teamwork and cooperation and friendliness, for without friends a nation can get nowhere, said the speaker.

Team work counts in all great undertakings, Prof. Springate declared. If I can have you think with me along the line of friendliness I am not so sure we will spend a profitable 50 minutes together, he said. The chain stores greatest disadvantage is the lack of personal contact between the management back in Chicago and New York and the public it serves. That is one of the local merchants greatest advantages, according to the speaker.

"Genuine service and sympathetic treatment also counts as well as fair prices and weight," he said. See that you give a square deal. Unless you are a team worker you have little opportunity to succeed in business. Savages do not have team work. Make friends as you make progress. Corporations are willing to pay big salaries. Make friends and your friends will make you. Friendship cannot be bought with money."

Brief talks were given by several local merchants including William Krueger of Neenah, who called attention to the methods used by chain stores in selling canned vegetables, three cans for 25 cents, which contain two ounces less than those sold by some merchants for 27 cents.

Stephen D. Balliet, president, and Samuel Sigman, director of the Appleton Home Merchants association, told what the merchants of their city are doing particularly with reference to the packers entering the retail field.

SHANNON SUCCEEDS SYKES AS PRESIDENT OF LEAGUE CHAPTER

New Officers to Make Arrangements for Annual Walton Banquet

E. W. Shannon was elected president of the local chapter of the Isaac Walton league to succeed Richard Sykes at a meeting in the city hall Thursday evening. Mr. Sykes was president for the past three years.

Other officers are E. W. Hildendorf, vice president; T. J. Murphy, secretary and treasurer; R. J. Sykes, William Falatich and Charles Kelley, trustees.

Plans for the annual meeting were discussed and the officers were requested to appoint the committee in charge.

The chapter went on record as opposed to net fishing through the ice, erection of fish shanties on the ice and voted in for closing hook and line fishing in the spring during the spawning season.

Activities during the past year were reviewed. Hundreds of trout secured from fish hatcheries in and out of the state were planted in near-by streams during the past year, it was reported.

During the past year the chapter also planted many pheasants in Center swamp and other nearby swamps and established feeding centers for them. Signs were posted in a restricted area of Center swamp warning hunters not to shoot pheasants.

Over one and one half carloads of assorted fish, including yellow perch, crappie, black bass and bluegills were planted in nearby lake streams.

The last shipment consisted of 50 cents of crappie, 50 cents of sunfish, 50 cents of blue gills and he remaining 150 cents of black bass, yellow perch and bluegills.

The 1936 program will be arranged by the committee in charge. The chapter membership now totals 290.

and Robison of Kentucky, Republicans; and Messrs. Fletcher of Florida, Glass of Virginia, Wagner of New York, Barkley of Kentucky, Connolly of Texas, Bratton of New Mexico, and Brock of Tennessee, Democrats.

The reports around the capitol are that there would not be enough votes cast in favor of an immediate inquiry. As to restrictive legislation, it is doubtful whether the senate committee would make a report at any early date if the inquiry were finally decided upon, since the subject is so complicated that it would take considerable time for a thorough study of the facts. Senators would be guided somewhat by the attitude of the members of the federal reserve board itself and it is not believed the board wishes any such amendment of the federal reserve act, believing it already possesses the power to restrict the use of federal reserve credit for loans on stocks and bonds. The difference between a discretionary and a mandatory power would have to be argued before the committee and undoubtedly members of the reserve board here, as well as directors of federal reserve banks, would wish to be heard if the matter came to an issue.

Indications are that the banking and currency committee of the senate will have a lot of work in the next several months because the pressure for a survey of branch and chain banking is growing, as well as for some regulation of investment companies that are closely related to national banks. Not all of those who want an investigation are concerned with a post-mortem on last year's speculative era but some sentiment exists for a constructive inquiry which will look toward sounder banking conditions and a better system of checking banking operations.

CAN'T TELL WHAT OTHERS SPEND FOR ONE'S CANDIDACY

That Would Be Impossible, Blaine Tells Senate Committee

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—It is impossible to expect a candidate to know or be responsible for what other people spend in behalf of his candidacy. Senator John J. Blaine of Boscombe told the Wisconsin Legislature's investigating committee.

This statement of the senator's was viewed with particular interest on account of the attempt to hold Governor Walter J. Kohler responsible for all others spent on behalf of his candidacy for governor in 1928.

The following questions and answers took place in the investigation of Senator Blaine's expenditures in the 1928 campaign:

Senator J. W. Carow: "What was your interpretation of the statute which says, 'All money spent in behalf of the candidate must be reported'?"

Sen. Blaine: "The money spent by the candidate."

Sen. Carow: "No, not by the candidate, but on behalf of the candidate."

Sen. Blaine: "That is my interpretation. By the candidate or in his behalf through him."

Sen. Carow: "That is your interpretation."

Sen. Blaine: "Yes. The candidate clearly could not know what other people spent. You cannot do the impossible. You can't interpret a law that attempts to do the impossible."

The following expenditures were reported on behalf of Senator Blaine's candidacy: Senator Blaine, $7,923.50; the limit for United States senators being $5,000; Senator Robert M. La Follette on behalf of Senator Blaine, $1,163.29; A. T. Paukack, Madison, $200; The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, $11,491.29; country clubs, $3,205.56; the state central committee, $4,463.82; Labor, the railroad brotherhood's newspaper, as testified by Edward Keating, editor, $3,475.20. In addition, $12,566.53 was spent in behalf of all the Progressive Republican candidates on the ticket in 1928, making a total of $41,749.22 spent for the progressive ticket.

In the 1928 campaign, Governor Kohler reported that he spent $2,871.02 in the primary campaign and $345.07 in the general election campaign.

REACH FOR ORANGE INSTEAD OF SMOKE, W. C. T. U. ADVISES

Madison—The orange today was pronounced a fruit with a stainless soul and won the official approval of the Madison W. C. T. U.

"Reach for an orange instead of a cigarette," was announced as the slogan of the local organization to combat the advertising of cigarette makers.

The slogan gets around the fastening objections and aims to curb the use of tobacco, described by Mrs. Kate L. Piper as "Subtle; it is as subtle as the serpent himself, creeping in and leaving devastation, destruction, disease, misery, heart aches; all indescribable. If it didn't were the only one to suffer—but the whole world suffers."

Here are some of the things that Mrs. Piper says cigarette smoking does to girls:

Apt to put them into criminal courts.

Makes them brazen faced and they lose the art of blushing.

Gives them a desire for young boy smokers, and this leads ultimately to a life of impurity and shame and disgrace.

Sixty per cent of the babies of cigarette smoking mothers die before the age of 2.

New York—Athletic hysteria is headed in the same direction as the star of empire, said Herbert E. Hawkes, dean of the college at Columbia university, in an academic address: "Athletic hysteria is shifting from the eastern universities, where it survives now chiefly among the alumni, to the less sophisticated universities of the west and ultimately will drown in the Pacific ocean."

On behalf of him and other candidates on the ticket with him, the Republican state committee spent $57,523, and other clubs spent other amounts, not yet gone into by the investigating committee.

The committee, consisting of Senator Carow of Ladysmith, George Blanchard of Edgerton, Conrad Shearer of Kenosha, Moulton G. Goff of Sturgeon Bay, and Robert A. Nixon of Washburn went to New York Wednesday to examine the offices of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and investigate the campaign contributions of Rich and Lee.

FINISHES HIGH SCHOOL COURSE AT AGE OF 34

Ushkosh—(CP)—Since 1910 William E. Burdick's sole goal had been to get through high school so that she might become a nurse. Last night she achieved it at the age of 34.

With 50 others, she was graduated from Oshkosh High school and prepared to start a hospital course at once.

First illness in the family, then financial straits and then the necessity for work kept her from picking up her education where she left off in 1910. Over the intervening years, however, she took part-time courses, utilized spare hours for correspondence work and last fall went to full-time school again for the five credits she was lacking.

New York—Having fallen into January waters, June is living the life of Betty June slipped cutting snow on Governor's island, an army reservation, and it took three and one-half hours to pull her out after a prisoner dived and cut her harness. June, a mule, is getting a rest, but is to be watched, lest she make a habit of cold bathing.

Paris—Members of France's international football team believe they are equipped for an invasion of the British better than ever. Hitherto, they have been handicapped by strange beverages. They play Ireland at Belfast tomorrow and are taking four eight-gallon kegs of their own wine.

Schwartzfeld, former German minister to Colombia, who heads the "Verein Kaiserland" (literally "gratitude-to-the-kaiser" society), which presents the former ruler each year with a list of individuals, especially the owners of Prussian junker estates, who are willing to offer free lodging to needy monarchists, or to have them come to their estates during convalescence from illness. Von Schwartzfeldt probably will be accompanied by the treasurer of the organization, Lieut. Gen. Richard Waechter, vice chairman of the federation of former officers.

The "Verein Kaiserland" representative also will bring with him the thousands of letters of congratulations written by the rank and file of monarchists throughout Germany. Every year the organization reminds the faithful through the columns of its official organ, "Der Antreiber" (The Upright) of the approaching birthday of his majesty, and suggests that all well wishers write their letters on the same page stationery. These letters then are fastened together and presented by von Schwartzfeldt.

ANNOUNCE LEGION SERVICE WORKERS

Madison—(CP)—American Legion members of the state committee on community service which will make an all-state survey of community resources were announced today by Aubrey W. Williams, Madison, chairman.

Legion posts in 62 Wisconsin cities already have announced cooperation in the project, and will aid in specific study of their locality.

Members of the committee from each congressional district are: Gerald Cooper, Kenosha, first; Paul Kaiser, Juneau, second; A. E. Carey, Madison, third; John Lashier, Milwaukee, fourth and fifth; J. J. Williams, Berlin, sixth; Harvey Mann, Sparta, seventh; Benno Meyer, La Crosse, eighth; Jack Weirman, Sturgeon Bay, and the Rev. Mr. Keefe, De Pere, Dr. C. A. Dawson, River Falls, and John Paville, Menomonie, tenth, and Lee W. Hanson, Prentice, and O. L. Krassett, Ashland, eleventh.

Little Rock, Ark.—Easel Wilson has a few teeth marks on one ankle to remind him of the stubbornness of his mule, and the mule is dead. The animal slipped on ice and got tangled up in the harness. He grabbed Wilson's ankle when being extricated. Even a blow with an axe that broke the mule's jaw failed to free the ankle. Then the mule got a fatal blow on the head.

Appleton High School Five Meets Manitowoc Tonight

ORANGE SEEKING FIRST CONFERENCE BASKETBALL WIN

Lake Shore Team's Attack Is Built Around Veteran Gailbraith

APPLETON high school basketball team will go in question of its first conference victory tonight when it meets Manitowoc high school five in the new Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college.

Defeated in its last three conference starts but victorious over Neenah last Saturday evening in a second overtime period, the Orange gives promise of developing into something more than an also ran team in the valley loop.

Illness has thrown a crimp in the Appleton lineup because it has robbed the team of Norbert Berg, co-captain, and the only real veteran on the team. Berg was ill most of last week and missed a couple days again this week. He probably will be able to play tonight although his illness has weakened him.

During the last week Coach Joseph Shields has been trying his best to get the team accustomed to playing on a big floor despite the fact it practices on small ones. Last Saturday evening they showed signs of mastering a smooth working passing attack although their antics on the big Lawrence court were of players who are lost because of the great amount of space to wander around in.

The invading Manitowoc team has not been faring so well this season although it managed to beat out West Green Bay last week. The Ships are built around Shorty Gailbraith, their one veteran and scoring ace. From all indications a team that stops Shorty stops the whole works.

Last season the boys from along the lake shore scammed to a victory over most all teams in the league and won the conference championship. They lost their big stars by graduation and this season are just another basketball team.

Coach Shields has not indicated his lineup for Friday night but it no doubt will be the same that performed against Neenah. That means Ed and Ned will jump center, co-captain Berg and Knep will be at forwards and co-captain Breitrick and Zimdars will be guards.

A preliminary game is booked for the curtain raisers and it will feature the second teams from the two schools. The Appleton quint showed unusual skill and speed last week against Neenah and ended up with a sweet victory.

Busses again will run from College and Madison to the gym. The schedule will be bus every 20 minutes beginning at 7 o'clock. Busses also will be at the gym to take the crowd back to town.

BOOSTERS STILL ROLL AT OSHKOSH

Regular Teams Begin Assault on Pins at 1:30 Friday Afternoon

Oshkosh—(P)—The Military Police, a group of local legion bowlers, shot into first place among the booster teams here Thursday night in the Wisconsin State Bowling tournament. With a score of 2,420 they displaced Spoo and Sons who had 2,402.

The only other change among the first five was made by the Artillery team which grabbed fourth place with 2,377.

Winners of prizes on the first squad, the Pin Boys, were: Eagle Pin Boys No. 1, 2,123; Rauff Pin Boys No. 6, 2,071; Eagles Pin Boys No. 2, 2,044; Rauff No. 1, 2,011; Elks No. 2, 1,994 and St. Mary's No. 2, 1,924.

JACKIE FIELDS TO MEET VINCE DUNDEE

Second Meeting Between Pair Is Headliner on Chicago Card

Chicago—(P)—Jackie Fields, ruler of the world's welterweights, tonight will renew his feud with the Dundee family of Baltimore, in a 10-round bout with Vince Dundee at the Chicago stadium.

It will be the second meeting between the pair in Chicago, and Fields, who has a hair-line decision over the brother of the former champion, was out to score a knock-out. Fields, however, will be at a disadvantage in the weights, coming at about 147 pounds, the division limit, while Dundee probably will weigh around 155 at fight time making the bout a non-title affair.

ABOUT THE RACES

The annual Post-Crescent skating races will be staged Sunday afternoon at Jones park beginning at 1 o'clock. Numbers for the persons entered will be available at the Post-Crescent Saturday night also at the park Sunday afternoon.

A field of 50 skaters has entered the races and although Appleton has the largest representation many speedsters from neighboring cities are entered. Indications are that several places will be taken out of city skaters.

The races Sunday are being started early because Appleton and New London hockey teams will clash on the hockey rink at conclusion of the races. Several race officials will be playing hockey so for their convenience the races will begin at 1 o'clock.

The complete program of events and heats will be listed in Saturday evening's edition of the Post-Crescent. Watch for it!

PRO BOUTS CARDED AT GREEN BAY FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Joe Azzarella and Peewee Jerrell Will Feature in Windup

GREEN BAY—Peewee Jerrell and his camp followers arrived in the city three days prior to their engagement here for a short period in the training gym at Columbus club with more than the usual number of fans looking on and formulating guesses, opinions and wagers as to how Jerrell will stack up with Milwaukee's favorite, Joe Azzarella Friday night.

Jerrell is the only out of the state boxer on Friday's card and the commission rules that boxers be in the state three days prior to their engagement has therefore been fulfilled already. Azzarella is due to arrive over the Northwestern road tonight and Gus DeSalvo who mixes with Young Shaw of Oshkosh will be with him.

Gym periods have been divided up for Friday morning and whatever light limbering up exercise any of the boxers care to do will be out of the way soon after noon and the whole show will appear before the commission's inspectors and physicians at 3 o'clock. Weighing in will take place as usual in the office of the club's physical director.

Big Ed Platten, Green Bay product, who makes his ring debut here in a bout of six rounds with the huge Tiny Hable of Oshkosh looked good in his work-out yesterday. Persons who may have been inclined to feel that Platten's boosters had overshot their mark in the impossible list of scalps the big fellow is supposed to have taken in southern rings are much less skeptical after seeing his gymnasium workouts. He is remarkably fast for an "elephant" as the heavies are called, and appears to know a great deal about the game—things which only long experience teaches a boxer.

The card which presents Herb King, Charlie and Eddie Chert, Antigo light-heavyweights in four periods, Ed Platten and Tiny Hable, Oshkosh, in six rounds; Young Shaw, Oshkosh and Gus DeSalvo, Milwaukee and Joe Azzarella, Milwaukee and Peewee Jerrell, South Bend, Indiana in what is scheduled for a full half hour of milling, sets under way promptly at 8:30 o'clock in the Columbus club Auditorium.

There has been considerable demand for seats from other cities and the fact that sports writers in many valley cities have featured the card indicates a considerable interest elsewhere than Green Bay.

HOCKEY GAME TO BE PLAYED SUNDAY

Appleton and New London Battle After Skating Tournament

Appleton sports fans will have a chance to see hockey played by the best talent in the city Sunday afternoon when the Blue Streaks, Appleton's contribution to the hockey world meet New London.

Last Sunday afternoon the Appleton team went to New London and came home with a victory over the Wolf river boys. They had the puck in front of the New London net during almost the entire game and registered with ease.

New London has been priming for the local six during the last week and hopes to return the complement here Sunday. Jones park rink has been lengthened to regulation size and will be ready for the contest.

PLAY 2 HOCKEY GAMES IN Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE

Two hockey games will be played Saturday afternoon by boys in the Y. M. C. A. Junior hockey league. The first game will begin at 2:30 and will show the Blackhawks versus the International sevens. The second game will feature two First ward teams. Two games are carded because of a postponed battle last Saturday afternoon.

OSHKOSH TEACHERS BEAT PRO QUINTET

Oshkosh—(P)—The Oshkosh State Teachers college defeated the Oshkosh All-Stars, a pro aggregation, 87 to 21 in a speedy basketball game last night.

The All-Stars were minus the services of McAllister Halverson and Eddie Kotala. Superior numbers took the Teachers in the last quarter, or better, of the game.

GENE SARAZEN WINS FIRST PRIZE AT AGUA CALIENTE

Horton Smith and Al Espinosa Tied for Second Place Money

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN Associated Press Sports Writer Agua Caliente, Lower Calif.—(P)—Gene Sarazen, sturdy New York professional, today ushered that ancient and royal Scottish pastime, golf, into the big money class of the sporting world.

With the magic touch of his chosen clubs Sarazen yesterday transformed his 235 strokes for the 72-hole first annual Agua Caliente $25,000 open tournament into $10,000, the champion's share of the largest stake ever placed on the golfing mart.

A stirring comeback which recalled his advent into the list of the elite back in 1922 when he, as a 21-year-old youth, stepped out to win the national open title, marked Sarazen's play.

Fourteenth at the end of the first round, the former caddy finished his triumphant tour of the four-day event with a two-stroke edge over the pride of Missouri's Ozark region, Horton Smith, and the veteran Al Espinosa, Chicago professional, both of whom finished with scores of 28.

For four set a course record of 69 in his startling finish. It was one of only two scores which eclipsed the par figures of 71 during the tournament. At the conclusion, Wirt G. Bowman, president of the Agua Caliente Company, Inc., announced that the affair would become a permanent fixture among the Pacific coast winter money events, to which it served as a stirring climax.

The other player to stroke his way beyond the par barrier was George Elm, member of the Walker cup team, who one of the nation's ranking amateurs. The Detroit Simon Pure tied for fourth place and finished first among the half dozen play-for-fun entrants who survived the 36-hole qualifications.

Tied with Von Elm were the Dutra brothers, Olin, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Mortie, Tacoma, Wash., pro, three strokes behind the champion. Smith and Espinosa gathered in $3,750 each, while the Dutras collected $1,750.

The tournament presented a variety of conditions to test the prowess of the 115 original starters. Monday's round was played on a soggy course, while the second and third found a trying wind which reached a gale Wednesday. A fast course and ideal weather marked the concluding eighteen holes of play.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. professional, whose 71 Monday put him in a temporary lead, fell victim of the stubborn course and finished in the stubborn course and finished in the stubborn course and finished in the stubborn course.

Olin Dutra, with his fourth place final standing, was ahead at the 36-hole mark.

GETS SIX BIRDIES

It was the final round by Sarazen which was most remarkable. He collected six birdies, the last three in succession, after going two over par on the tenth and one over on the eleventh. His recovery from these misfortunes under such nerve racking conditions marked him as championship timber and the gallery of approximately 2,500 persons began to trickle away from Horton Smith as word went the rounds that the New Yorker had forged to the front.

Sarazen, each time he addressed the ball, added $33.33 to his earnings during the four day stand. His $10,000, coupled with the money he collected by winning the Miami open and by going to the third round in the National P. G. A. tournament at Los Angeles last December, enabled him to slip ahead of Smith as the big money winner of the past season.

The 21-year-old youth from the "show me" state, whose record this year ago and again this season still holds for him the title of the world's most consistent money winner, won approximately $9,000 in the past season, with three championships, an undivided second, and two ties.

McGraw Makes Giants A Hard Team To Figure

BY JOHN B. FOSTER Copyright, 1930.

NEW YORK—Unless there is a trade of some kind between now and the beginning of the season, the Giants will go to their training camp at San Antonio with one of those teams with which Manager McGraw defiantly challenges the National league occasionally. He has bluffed them before and he has won championships with teams which were ridiculed by experts and scorned by Chicago.

There was a time when Chicago did most of the scoring so far as New York was concerned.

Billy Terry returned to first base for the Giants. He is now engaged in correspondence trying to get more money for 1930. He batted like a Calithumpian last season and thinks he should be paid generously. When he procrastinated about reporting to the Giants in 1929, McGraw was irritated and made no bones about it. Terry went to San Antonio later than the other boys and evidently decided that he would have to make good during 1929, so he accelerated.

Reese and Marshall will fight for second base. Reese has pluck and can bat, but the fellows who conjure up baseball possibilities say Marshall is much the better second baseman of the two, although he has had little experience. Lobart had him at Bridgeport in 1929 and unquestionably was much impressed by him.

That, however, makes little difference to McGraw. If he thinks his team needs batting, and is apt to

Capacity Crowd Sees Amateurs Battle On American Legion Card

Windy Thomas Beats Frigarde in Over Time Bout; Wolf Wins Again

FEATURED by an over-time bout in which Winston "Windy" Thomas, New London, won from Marcel Frigarde, Milwaukee, and one of the fastest bouts ever seen here won by Herbie Thompson, New London, from Augie Stubbler, Sheboygan, the American legion's amateur boxing show at Armory G last night was one big success.

The fans went home talking to themselves about one of the best fight cards which has been shown in Appleton fans since amateur fights were started here. And the legion went home talking and counting the gate receipts swelled by one of the biggest crowds which has ever packed the armory. Standing room was at a premium.

It was hard to tell whether the second bout of the evening, won by Thompson, New London, or the bout between Windy Thomas and Frigarde were the best.

Both Thompson and Stubbler entered the ring at 131 pounds and they fought every second they were on the canvas. The first two rounds were fairly even but Thompson pulled out ahead when he took the advantage and the lead in the third round. Stubbler was bleeding at the nose but made Thompson fight for every point he gained. The pair mixed gloves at the sound of the bell. There was little time to think of caution. They just stood and exchanged wallops.

With the crowd in a frenzy the boys stood toe to toe and swung gloves like trip hammers. They both managed to keep their feet despite the terrific punishment they were experiencing. At the end of the fight, although the decision went to Thompson, fans gave Stubbler a huge ovation as he left the ring.

The crowd then settled back satisfied that they had received their money's worth with this one fight alone. And then Thomas and Frigarde entered the ring.

These boys were a little more cautious than Thompson and Stubbler had been. They felt for openings for second place. Sarazen has collected approximately $11,000.

Eight members of the Ryder cup team finished in the money to collect $18,775 of the $25,000 stake. Besides Sarazen, Smith and Espinosa, Al Saunders, Detroit; Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla.; Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente; Johnny Gould, Paterson, N. J.; and Dudley earned a share of the spoils.

Walter Hagen, captain of the team, and winner of the British open championship last year, along with Joe Turnesa, New York, were the two who failed to connect. The Detroit pro terminated what has proved the most disastrous winter stand he ever has staged on the west coast, winning only $80 in five appearances.

Sarazen, Farrell and a number of other pros will return to their homes, while the remainder of the golfing army will move on San Antonio, where a week hence the Texas open takes place.

TOMMY HITCHCOCK RANKS NO. 1 IN POLO

New York—(P)—Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., captain of the United States' international forces, still is the kingpin of American polo.

Revised handicaps announced by the United States Polo association left Hitchcock's rating of ten goals, highest possible in the game, unchallenged. Ranked at nine goals again was F. W. C. Guest, former Yale star and member of the last American "big four." These two led all the rest.

need a lot of it, he will put Reese down for the job at second and Jackson will play short and Lindstrom third as they have in the past. Dave Baneroff has been hitched up to a player's contract, although he will be coach most of the time. By signing him to a contract to play, the Giants can use him as a utility man, as good as any other utility man in the National league and better than many.

There are two kid outfielders, Allen and Ballou. Maybe one of them will stick.

The outfield is made up of Fullis, who is being developed with and good wishes; Roush, who can play some of the season if not all of it; Fisher of Buffalo, who has threatened to be tried out by some major league team for two years; Leach, who isn't apt to be any better than he was last season; Ott, the Louisiana sugar king; Veltman, who doesn't know whether he is an outfielder or a catcher; Fitzgerald of Springfield, Mass., and Leslie of Memphis, who is a first baseman by trade but who is listed as an outfielder.

If any other manager than McGraw would go to spring training with these infielders and outfielders and catching staff made up of Hogan, Laveque, Healey and O'Farrell, there would not be a 50 to 50 bet that he would finish in the first division, to mention nothing of being a pennant contender. The pitching staff is as much a problem as it was last year.

BADGERS GO INTO SECOND PLACE IN CAGE CONFERENCE

Beat Indiana at Bloomington Thursday Night by 23 and 21 Score

Chicago—(P)—Wisconsin today was firmly planted in second place in the Western conference basketball race, and Indiana, which started the wee as a share-holder of first place, was well down the list, tied with Michigan and Northwestern for fifth position.

The Badgers, at a disadvantage in size and reserve power, last night jolted the Hoosiers 23 to 21 in the first overtime struggle of the season. Mathusen, Badger forward, connected with the winning field goal two minutes before the finish of the overtime session.

Wisconsin topped the Hoosiers, 13 to 11, at halftime, but Branch McCracken dropped in a one hand shot to tie the count at 19-11 just before the final gun. Ted Chmielewski hooked a basket for Wisconsin in the overtime, but this same McCracken tied it up, only to have Mathusen score the winning marker a few seconds later.

Captain Bud Foster, as usual the soul of the Wisconsin attack, scored 10 points to assume the lead in the individual race, although McCracken accounted for a like number of points to take second position. Foster had 51 points today, and McCracken, 42.

The Badgers were well set in the runnerup position, with four triumphs and one defeat. The week's activity will be completed Saturday. Northwestern will tackle Chicago on the latter's floor, and Minnesota and Ohio State, the trailers, will battle at Columbus, O.

Bloomington, Ind.—(P)—The University of Wisconsin today held second place in the Western conference basketball race by virtue of a hard-fought 23 to 21 overtime victory over Indiana university here last night.

A field goal by Mathusen in the final two minutes of the added period provided the winning margin.

Play was fast and close throughout. Indiana held a 13 to 11 advantage at half time. The Badgers pulled ahead, but McCracken Hoosier center, slipped in an under-the-basket shot to knot the count at 19-11 just before the gun.

In the overtime play, Chmielewski, Wisconsin guard, scored a one-hand shot from the side, and McCracken retaliated with a pot-shot. A minute of intense excitement was followed by Mathusen's final goal.

Foster, Badger center, and McCracken divided scoring honors with 10 points apiece.

The summary: WISCONSIN (23) FG FT PF Mathusen, F. 2 1 0 Farber, F. 0 1 0 Nelson, F. 0 0 0 Foster, C. 4 2 1 Chmielewski, G. 2 1 2 Paul, G. 1 0 1 Totals 9 5 8

Sutton of Chicago, for their entries in a national championship event to be held in Chicago next month.

Chicago—King Levinsky, Chicago, outpointed Johnny Freeman, Buffalo, N. Y. (8); Chuck Heffer, Denver, Colo. outpointed Chip Freeman, Buffalo, (8); Carle Retzlaff, Minneapolis, knocked out Art Malay, Chicago, (10).

NEW YORK FANS WANT SINGER TO MEET JACK BERG

Englishman's Victory Over Canzoneri Places Him Among Best Lighties

Copyright 1930 NEW YORK—Local fans are talking up a contest between Jack Kid Berg and Al Singer. Berg's resounding victory over Tony Canzoneri has dimmed Singer's recent feats.

to see who is the better man before nominating an opponent for the lightweight champion, Sammy Mandell.

Before the Berg-Canzoneri fight Singer was all the talk. This has simmered down to a whisper, with Berg now getting most of the publicity. On his showing against the former featherweight boss, who gave Mandell such a close call last summer, Berg proved that he is a legitimate lightweight by scaling in one half pound under the class weight.

That was a surprise. The pace he made and kept up was a bigger surprise and local fans are hailing him as the next leader of the 155 pound class.

Singer could get no better than a draw with Canzoneri. Al was asked if he would like to meet Berg. A vigorous shake of his head was the answer. Not that Al fears Berg. Singer would rather fight any other lightweight in the country than Jack Kid Berg. A real bond of friendship exists between the pair and a meeting in the squared circle is something that neither relishes.

Singer is booked to take on Battalino over the jumps on the last day of the month. The contest is hanging fire at present. Singer has a bad right hand and Battalino is nursing a badly infected finger on his left hand. Battalino's injury was aggravated in his bout Monday night with Lew Massey and may cause a postponement of the Singer fight.

MAHON HEAD OF COMMITTEE FOR HOSPITAL

200 Men and Women Hear Indorsement of $100,000 Campaign

New London—Approximately 200 people of New London and the surrounding community attended a citizens' meeting last night at which the hospital plan to raise $100,000 to erect and equip a 50-bed New London Community hospital. The hospital plans were discussed and campaign leaders named at the dinner meeting in the Congregational church.

R. J. McMahon was named general chairman of the campaign and, following his plea for the united cooperation of the entire community, named several of his appointees.

W. E. Milton was named as chairman of the special gifts committee, G. H. Putnam as county chairman, and Mrs. R. G. Small as chairman of the women's organization. She will organize a division of about 49 women of the community to assist the men in soliciting prospective donors. Putnam will have charge of organizing committees in the towns near New London.

THE COMMITTEE
Members of the special gifts committee includes George Ruppel, Rev. F. J. Dayton, Leonard Cline, R. F. O'Brien, Dr. F. J. Murphy, William Knappstein, Fred Krause, John Seering, Ben Hartquist, David Egan, Jack Hickey, G. H. Putnam, W. J. Miller, George Meertz, Guy Blonder, and others. The women's organization is headed by Mrs. W. E. Milton, with Mrs. W. E. Milton, Dr. J. W. Monstard, Jr., and Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer.

Additional committee appointments will be announced in the next few days by Chairman McMahon.

"Give so much that it becomes a real sacrifice, and then you will get real joy from your giving," declared A. N. Whiting, Antigo, who was the first speaker of the evening. Judge Whiting was general chairman for the recent hospital campaign in Antigo in which the $100,000 goal was surpassed by almost $40,000.

"If all your people enter the spirit of this campaign wholeheartedly, and all do your part in work and in giving, you will go over the top," he asserted. "You have one of the richest communities in the state. You must think in generous terms when you make your gift for the hospital. Think in terms of diamonds, not cut glass. If you just figure how much you can give without sacrifice, then it is not a gift."

HELP FOR POOR

"You must not only realize what this new hospital will mean to you personally, but what it means for the poor people of this vicinity who are not able to take their children to other cities for hospitalization. We want to own property and who hire men to make money for us must show some concern for the poor people and those men that we are for them and their interests—then they will be for us."

J. C. Lewis of Antigo, president of the Langlade County Memorial hospital, the second guest speaker, reviewed the successful Antigo campaign and predicted success here. He declared that harmony, cooperation, and the willingness of citizens to answer the call to work were the keynotes of success in the Antigo campaign. "You can do nothing more worthy with your money than to contribute to a community hospital," he declared.

Dr. George Moore, the third speaker from Antigo, discussed the program from the viewpoint of the medical profession. He asserted that proper atmosphere helps a physician to do better work. He stressed the harmonious attitude of Antigo doctors in connection with the campaign there and prophesied that the same spirit would prevail in the New London campaign. He complimented New London for its staff of physicians and spoke of the excellent reputation which they bear among the medical profession of the state.

Several New London citizens made short talks indorsing the program and promising their assistance in the campaign.

In a short discussion, Emil Hamlin, president of the Hamilton and Sons Canning Co., one of the largest industries of the city, emphatically declared, "The hospital can be built. New London if we have the cooperation and unity of all our citizens. I will do my best to help make it a success."

MAYOR SPEAKS
With civic spirit all things are possible. Improvements cannot be achieved on a community—they must come from within," said E. H. Wendt, mayor of New London. In a short talk endorsing the plan, "Civic spirit should interest itself in every activity in the community and that includes health."

The mayor deplored the failure of the personal effort and expressed confidence that there would be a great spirit of unity on this project.

Hospitals differentiate civilization from barbarism," said Father Ginty, of Manawa, in a short, inspiring talk. "In barbarism, there is consideration of misery, suffering or pain. Each man is a world to himself. As we enter civilization there is a gradual loosening up of that situation. With civilization in this world lives independently, we are all dependent on others. We are most dependent when we are suffering. In that dependence we turn to the hospital for help. Thus, the hospital becomes a glory of civilization."

C. D. Henny of New London, in audible thoughts of almost present when he declared that he didn't know a better place in the world for a hospital than New London.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE MEETS NEENAH IN CONFERENCE GAME

Tilt Takes Place Friday Night in Auditorium at Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Neenah high school basketball team meets Kaukauna here Friday evening at the high school auditorium in a Northeastern Wisconsin Intercollegiate league game. Coach Jorgensen's squad is at the head of the league, while Kaukauna rests at the bottom.

The Kaws will have to contend with height as well as a fast working, experienced five. The Neenahs work a fine overhead passing attack which is likely to cause the locals much trouble. Judging from past games, things look rather dark for the local team, unless their eye for the basket shows a marked improvement.

Koch, lanky center, who has been unable to play on account of inability, will see action tonight. Besides being able to handle the center post capably Koch has an eagle eye for the basket. He has been playing with the seconds in preliminary games and has shown up well.

With Koch in the lineup, things may take on a different aspect, although the team has always shown plenty of spirit in the games played. Van Dyke and Dix probably will start at the forward positions while Captain R. Farwell and VanLieshout will be in their usual places at guards.

A preliminary game will be played with the Neenah and Kaukauna second teams. Neenah's team will be accompanied with the school band. The local band also will be present. After the game a dance will be held at the Elks' hall by the thirty six club.

UNION PAPER MILL RESUMES OPERATION ON MONDAY MORNING

Plant Will Employ Approximately 40 Men, Officials Report

Kaukauna — Preparations for resumption of work at the Union Paper company mill here are almost completed, according to R. A. Jacobson, resident manager. About 40 men will start work at the mill Monday. Only one machine will be put into operation but it is probable that the other paper machine will be started soon.

The mill was closed about eight months ago on account of slack business. About two weeks ago mill officials announced that one of the paper machines would be started. Men who formerly worked at the mill were called back to work. About 30 men were employed at the mill when it ceased operations last year. An adjustment in the wage scale has been made by the officials, placing it on almost the same basis as the wage scale in other mills in the vicinity, officials reported.

Resumption of the mill comes at an opportune time as there are many men out of work. The men were working at the mill when it closed, but were employed in factories throughout the valley. Recalling that these men will leave jobs open for some of those who are now out of work, a crew of men have been working at the mill for the past two weeks putting it into shape for the reopening. One of the large furnaces has been repaired.

Ten eighth grade students also had a perfect attendance record for the first five and a half months of school. They are Melva Denzer, Robert Hagman, William Cech, Robert Pahl, Melvin Lorenze, Mildred Kinder, Marcella Rodell, Donald Wenzel, Alice Paschen and Lorraine Wyro.

High Producing Herd In Group Returns $2.43 On $1

BY W. F. WINSEY

Seymour — County Agent Gus Sell says some interesting facts in the comparisons in the Green Herd Improvement Association high herd for 1929, owned by Emil W. Mueller and H. P. Recknagel.

The average of the herd of 17 cows for 1929 is 2432 pounds of butterfat and 1876 pounds of milk, testing 3.81. In 1928 the average of the herd of 18 cows was 2417 pounds of milk testing 3.8. Big time all cows in 1929 the highest cow in the herd produced 3152 pounds of butterfat and 1835 pounds of milk testing 3.9. Eleven of the 17 cows produced 300 pounds of butterfat or over. The average value of the production was $19.00. The average cost of baggage was $41.19. The average cost of grain was $45.35. The total feed cost $31.55. The value of the product over the cost of feed was $17.15. The returns on each cow averaged $2.43.

The total production of this Brown herd for the year was 5,869.4 pounds of butterfat and 152,592 pounds of milk, the average test being 3.84. Two old makers were in the herd that did not freshen during the test.

To show that the improvement of the production of daughters of dams in the Mueller herd due to the herd sire, has been made, Mr. Sell makes the following comparison:

Daughters, Silver Maid, 322 pounds of butterfat, dam Silver Queen, 241 pounds of butterfat, at two years of age. Dams had the best daughters. Oskosh Belle Meade 0.4, 241 pounds of butterfat, dam 0.4, 241 pounds of butterfat, at two years of age. Belle, at two years of age, 241 pounds of butterfat, at maturity.

HATCHERY CHICKS made a profit of $270 in Four Months for Mrs. Niemeyer

Read what she says in her letter that won a prize of $5,000

DO you want the big profit made by Mrs. Niemeyer and thousands of others with Hatchery Chicks? Read what some of the National Prize Winners say. Melvin Berg made nearly three times more profit from pullets raised from Hatchery Chicks than from pullets raised from home-hatched chicks. Leo Montbrand is another who has found the way to bigger poultry profits with Hatchery Chicks. He says, "I bought 500 Barred Rocks, and at the end of the first year they made me a total net profit of $801.10." And we could go on and tell you of scores of farmers and poultry raisers right in this section who have put their flock on a big pay basis with Hatchery Chicks.

care of 100 home-hatched chicks," says Mrs. T. L. Hoppes.

$1,332.10 Profit in One Year

Hatchery Chicks are profitable. They produced a net profit of $1,332.10 in one year for Henry Witte, another National Prize Winner. They are the kind of chicks that gave Mrs. Meeks 200 pullets which averaged 125 eggs a day. When you buy from a hatchery, you'll get the kind of chicks that pay you a real income. As Martha Patton Gault says, "Since we have been getting our chicks from the hatchery, poultry pays better than anything else on the farm."

Hatchery Chicks Will Increase Your Poultry Profits

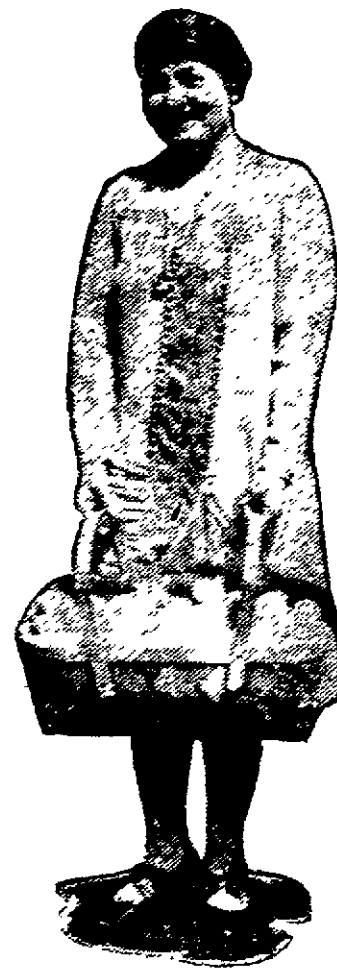

When you get chicks from our hatchery, you'll get chicks that are strong and healthy, the kind of chicks that live, grow fast and mature quickly into profit-producing fowls. Not only that. You'll get exactly the number of chicks you want at exactly the time you want them. No worry, no bother, no trouble with setting hens. No eggs lost from poor hatches. No crippled chicks. No weak and stunted chicks. And with chicks of the same age, you can feed and brood them with far less time and work. "I can look after my 500 Hatchery Chicks of the same age with less trouble than was required in taking

"Why it Pays to Buy Hatchery Chicks"

My principal reasons why it pays to buy Hatchery Chicks are as follows:
1. The average hen's maternal instinct is unreliable—and you lose.
2. When you get a poor hatch from your own hens, you lose again.
3. Wear and tear on nerves, setting hens and hoping for a good hatch, turns the hair gray.
4. You can care for 500 Hatchery Chicks in one-half the time required to tend 100 home-hatched chicks.
5. If you invest your money in Hatchery Chicks, all this loss, worry and work is eliminated.
6. Hatchery Chicks will make you more money—or no money—than you could possibly make with home-hatched chicks.
7. 500 Hatchery Chicks in four months made me a net profit of $270.19 over the cost of the chicks and the cost of the feed.
8. One wants to raise a definite number of chickens. But one can't count home-hatched chicks before they are hatched. The hatchery will deliver you exactly the number of chicks you want at the time you want them.

LUNATIC FRINGE" OF WETS AND DRYS NEAR COMPROMISE

Senate Committee Takes Up Proposal to Limit Jury Trials in Liquor Cases

EDITOR'S NOTE: (As the national lawmakers take up the recommendations of the president's law enforcement commission, public interest is focused on the clash of wet and dry opinion in Washington. Lemuel F. Parton, special staff writer of the Post-Crescent, making an investigation of law enforcement problems in large American cities, learns from leaders of the opposing forces that the "lunatic fringe" of both sides toward earnest considerations of compromise.)

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington, D. C. —(CPA)—The senate judiciary committee Thursday took up consideration of Senator Harris' bill to abolish jury trial in minor liquor cases, and to make federal magistrates out of United States commissioners, in accord with the recommendation of the president's law enforcement commission.

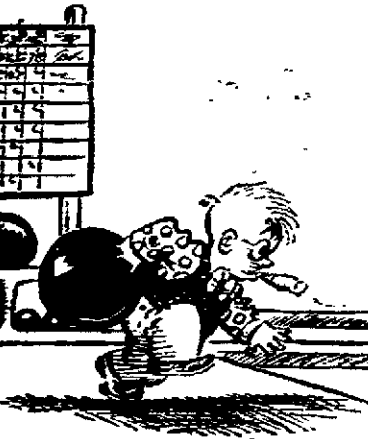

For nearly three years it has been held as reserve ammunition in the arsenal of the drys, but the drys themselves have been divided in opinion as to both its constitutionality and its effectiveness.

MOORE OFFERED PLAN
In December, 1928, Representative H. Walton Moore, of Virginia, placed the suggestion before the office of the United States attorney general. A high official in prohibition enforcement returned to Mr. Moore an adverse opinion, questioning the proposal as an invasion of the dignity of the federal judiciary, and pointing out that such procedure would remove from the jurisdiction of the district courts more than half the crimes which now come before them. As an alternative, there was outlined a plan for increasing the number of federal judges, without assignment, who might be sent by the chief justice to such recalcitrant wet spots in New York City.

If some Gabriel of the senate blows a trumpet blast which unlocks these official files, it will be disclosed that official Washington, long before the nomination of Herbert Hoover, had seen a cloud on the far horizon, and had sought to prepare for the climatic issue of law enforcement, as it now engrosses the nation.

OPINION IS CAUTIOUS
Official, quotable opinion is still cautious and regimented and yields only the partisan rubber stamp. Confidential opinion which "wishes to remain anonymous" is breaking into new segments, indicating the possibility of considerably more realism and detachment in the official view of the national prohibition middle, regardless of wet or dry attachments.

One of the outstanding national leaders of the drys for years one of the spokesmen of the militant wing of enforcement, was asked by this writer whether it would be possible actually to enforce the Volstead act without cutting out the army and navy, state militia and possibly the boy scouts and the camp fire girls. The reply was as follows:

"No, it couldn't be literally enforced without just about this procedure. But that doesn't mean that we admit for a minute that adequate enforcement is impossible. There is a way, perfectly feasible, by which enforcement can be obtained, and with only a small portion of the present expenditure.

"To begin with, it is hopeless even to think of accomplishing anything by closing up speakeasies. Along this line, there is no stopping point. The plan I have in mind probably wouldn't work in New York—that is a special problem which must be solved some special solution.

"This plan would require the assignment of perhaps a half dozen intelligent and trustworthy men to each city. These men would get inside a club or on the far horizon, and had sought to prepare for the climatic issue of law enforce-graft and law violations, where federal laws might be involved. Such procedure would be under section 552 of the penal code, which is directed against "aiding and abetting the commission of a felony." If the federal government ever moves against those who "aid and abet," it will get somewhere, and there is ample federal law to enable it to do so.

"The courts have sustained the right of the government to demand income tax payments on revenues illegally obtained and it has wide powers in tracing the funds and bank accounts under the income tax law. Some of the most effective work in uncovering vice in Chicago was done in this way. With section 552 and the income tax law, the government could uncover the crime ring in any city.

RESPECTABLE ARE CAUTIOUS
"Many of those who profit by the protection of crime are remote from its actual commission and are ostensibly respectable. The respectable people, having something to lose, run to cover when the trouble starts. Gangsters may be attacked in speakeasy raids; but they have nothing at stake, and they will remain and multiply like ragweed.

"The extremists of enforcement, who want to shoot everyone who has a job in his house, have done infinite harm to enforcement. Their efforts are futile and hopeless. The plan I suggested would break up the vicious and corrupt phases of law violations and virtually dry up the country. Home brewing, of course, would go on. But, at that, I do not believe sensible prohibitionists want to interfere with the right of a citizen to make wine in his own home."

Similarly, this writer found a wet congressman, one of the most vociferous champions of nullification in his home state, making surprising concessions to the other side and frankly admitting that chances of repeal of the eighteenth amendment were something more than remote.

IS NATIONAL PROBLEM
"Prohibition," he said, "has become not merely the question of sumptuary law, involving questions of individual rights, but an urgent national police problem. So disastrous have been its effects that, in my opinion, even the extremists of both sides have been shocked into a realization that something must be done, and both are coming to a point where they are ready to make concessions. I do not see any chance for repeal of the amendment, and I do not believe the supreme court would sustain an amendment to the Volstead law increasing the alcoholic content of legal beverages. I can see no hope other than a national referendum which, whatever the result, will guide congress and perhaps point the way to a final solution."

This inquiry happened to meet, under the capitol dome, a Republican county central committeeman back from a large middle western city. He was asked about the suggestion of sending in squads to get on the trail of the "higher ups."

"Hands off," he said. "We don't want them muddling in our home town affairs."

New York—LIP Artha has to work hard for his fried chicken these days. The ex-heavyweight champ said so in court when he was taxed $25 for motoring too fast. He now runs a jazz orchestra.

Washington—It looks as if the income of sundry actresses under whose pictures advice on how to get thin will be reduced. The Federal Trade commission announces that an unnamed cigaret manufacturer has agreed to discontinue advertising featuring such testimonials as those of certain actresses "who were credited with the statement that through the use of the respondents' cigarettes that's how we stay slender."

when in truth and fact the said actresses were not cigaret smokers and did not stay slender through the smoking of respondent's cigarettes."

The Secret of Mohawk Pond

Chapter 19

MR. EVANS, INVESTIGATOR

As has car raced up a steep grade, Obadiah gained a that glimpse of the fine structure that housed the Torrington hospital. He pulled up at the curb in front of it and went inside.

The superintendent, in her immaculate white uniform and cap, greeted Obadiah courteously, but with unmistakable surprise.

"Dr. Wells, whose summer home is near here, holds eye clinics on Tuesdays and Thursdays for patients who cannot afford to pay," she said in response to his inquiry. "However, the records are kept temporarily in my office. Whom did you come to inquire about?"

"Sundown, a half-breed Indian, from over Mohawk Mountain way. He's been over here during the past month. Sundown's failing is night blindness."

The superintendent looked up. "Oh, now I know," she exclaimed, annoyed at her first failure to recall the half-breed. "But he isn't a charity patient."

"No?" Obadiah's tone spoke volumes and again the superintendent regarded him.

"How stupid of me," she exclaimed with a vexed laugh, "you and Sundown brought Mr. Prescott here; he expired on the way."

"In my car," acknowledged Obadiah shortly. "At least, the house doctor said he did, before the autopsy."

"Did you see the report of the autopsy?" asked the superintendent.

Obadiah shook his head.

Without wasting further words, she ran through a filing drawer until she came to the paper she was after.

"We haven't an extra copy," she said. "One was sent to a Mr. Chase, Philander Chase, executor of Mr. Prescott's will; the second to a Lieutenant Stanton, and the third copy given to Sundown."

"He?"

Obadiah's loud ejaculation conveyed complete and overwhelming surprise and the superintendent paused; the next instant the paper was politely but forcibly removed from her grasp.

The technical words meant nothing to Obadiah as he ran his eyes over the paper—symptoms—gastric contents—blood tests—he skipped them all until he came to the sentence: "died from the effects of snake venom—punctured marks of fangs distinct."

Obadiah laid the paper down on the filing cabinet. His heart was beating almost to suffocation. By an effort he found his voice.

"Would it be breaking the rules to ask what the eye doctor says about Sundown's ability to see at night?"

"Not breaking the rules to ask it," she replied, "but to answer it, yes. You will have to consult Dr. Wells," and rising with an air of finality, she closed the interview.

Peggy lay at ease on a couch in the living room. Her injury to her ankle, although slight, had kept her indoors and inactive.

"What de doctah done say 'bout yo' ankle?" asked Julia solicitously.

"It's getting on splendidly. I'll have to keep the bandage on for sometime longer, but Dr. Eastman wants me to take long walks and exercise the ankle."

"Ma'am," Julia blurted the words almost in her ear, the whites of her eyes showing plainly as they rolled this way and that, making sure she was alone with Peggy. "Has yo' eber heard a cur'us noise in re early mawnin'—strivin' to imitate it—"

Peggy looked up.

"Oh, you mean the honk-a-donk of the litters, or 'stake-driver'—observing Julia's blank expression—"in the swamp, across the pond. I hear them nearly every mornin'."

"No'm, I don't mean dem, neither," exclaimed Julia, her native obstinacy aroused by Peggy's matter-of-fact acceptance of her news. "Dis hyar noise I'm talkin' 'bout comes from re pon' side, too, but it's closer to de house an' in it don't come regular."

Peggy shook her head, smiling. "Our ears are better than nose at that hour," she said. "I usually lie awake late and sleep late, while you sleep soundly all night."

"Miss Peggy," at her tone Peggy sat bolt upright; if ever fright distorted the human voice it was so with Julia at the present instant. "Miss Peggy, don't yo' hear nuffin'?"

"Julia," Peggy pulled the colored maid down on the couch beside her. "What ails you lately? You are so unlike yourself, so—so afraid. What has alarmed you?"

"It's skeered for you," she admitted, almost in a whisper. "Believe it or no, Miss Peggy, yo' po' uncle's speerit is hauntin' dis hyar place; he cin' restin' easy in his grave."

"Nonsense!"

"No, ma'am, 'tain't no nonsense," drawing a deep breath, Julia plunged into her confession. "Why fo' is he keepin' yo' hyar wid no-buddy but me 'roun'?" Answer me dat?"

She looked at her maid more closely.

"You have something on your mind," she said; "out with it, no matter how unpleasant."

"It's had a dream."

"It's happened twice—a knock comes on de do. Miss Peggy; bang, bang, bang; an' when I opens it, dar stan's a strange man wid a black patch over his eye—an' back ob dis man I seen a hearse an' he says: 'All ready hyar?' Twice it done happen. Miss Peggy, an' twice I done slam de do in his face. What gwine happen ef he comes de third time?"

"Quit eatin' toasted cheese at night!"—Peggy's advice covered a rapidly beating heart; Julia had given no realistic version of her nightmare to render it entirely unbelievable. Bah, she was as big a fool as her superstitious maid, to place faith in dreams and omens—"then there will be no third time."

"Hush! ou'se co'tin' trouble!" In horror Julia laid a warning hand on Peggy's. "Didn't yo' Uncle Herbert hab a patch ober his eye? Answer me true, Miss Peggy?"

"Why, yes—"

"Dar yo' is—An' Julia, divin' between a sense of triumph and her fear of the supernatural, opened and shut a small chamois purse in a pocket of her apron.

"O, Miss Peggy, remember de course ob de Lawd is on de house ob de wicked."

Nonsense, Julia; my uncle wasn't wicked."

Provoked, Peggy lay back in the corner of her couch her feet partly curled up under her.

"And you mustn't believe in evil spirits."

Julia's mouth set rebelliously. "Speerits, good! and evil, comes to dem wid an understandin' heart," she protested. "An' God speaks in a mysterious way His messages to deiver."

Peggy gave way to mirth.

"Oh, Julia, as a Sunday school teacher you'd be a hind!"

She failed to catch the flash of resentment in Julia's black eyes. "Don't waste your time worrin' over dreams."

EVERYBODY EXCEPT COMMISSION HAPPY OVER PROHIBITION

Wets in Good Mood Because They Think Dry Law Can't Be Enforced

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 Washington—At the moment everyone seems to be happy over the prohibition situation. The dry organizations are happy because "their" president has gone into action for the cause. Dry senators and representatives who participated in the recent ballyhoo are happy because they may now turn to their dry constituents in the coming election campaigns and claim credit for the big drive. President Hoover is happy because he feels that after this no one will have any reason to yell at him about prohibition enforcement for some time to come. WETS LOOK FOR BREAKDOWN: The wets are happy because they think the Commission on Law Enforcement and Enforcement is inclined to agree with them that prohibition can never be enforced and because they rely on the failure of the new big program to prove their point. Bootleggers have no complaint, for they have been given a pretext for raising prices, whether they are going to be hurt or not. Of course, there are some persons who profess certain disgust over the fact that politics has completely dominated the landscape in these last few weeks of frenzied prohibition argument, but they don't count much in Washington. The real victim of the whole melodrama is the Law Enforcement Commission, which had a chance to gain enormous prestige and do a great deal of good for the country, but may not be able to recover the opportunity. There will be an attempt in Congress to kill off the commission now and the board's best hope of survival lies in the fact that the politicians realize it might again sometime come in handy for political purposes. A few blatant dries, quite without the support of the dry organizations which ordinarily control them, chased the commission all over the pasture, twisted its arm and made it say "Uncle". That is the explanation of the commission's report, with the strange additional fact that President Hoover was willing to join the howling pack tearing at his own pet commission by supporting the demand for a report the commission wasn't ready to give. Most of the people on the commission expected Hoover to back them up. They have been grieving deeply because he didn't. The commission was conceived by Hoover in the campaign as the best method of handling the ticklish prohibition issue. But when it was actually appointed everyone cheered because of the high caliber of its 11 members and the fact that hardly any of them were concerned with politics. For months it appeared as if the commission, engaged in exhaustive research with high and noble purposes, were going to be allowed to do a thorough and important job without interference. But that turned out to be too good to be true. Politicians on Capitol Hill joined together to make it a goat. MAKES FEW NEW PROPOSALS: The recommendations on prohibition were not new for the most part and might as well have been dictated from the White House. It made a couple of radical proposals which

BOYS BEAT GIRLS IN SCHOLARSHIP

Also Show Superiority in Promptness and Attendance at School

The boys of the second grade of St. Joseph school won a contest in scholarship, promptness and attendance against the girls recently. A new contest, with the placement of stars in the name of George Washington as the award, has been instituted. In the second and third grade the team which supplies the greatest number of merit stars in the word "snowman" will win a contest in progress in that grade. Maps showing the various products of the United States are on display in the fifth grade at St. Joseph school. Pasted on the maps are samples of petroleum, natural gas, gold, silver, copper, coal, rye, potatoes, barley, peanuts, rice, borax, lead, zinc, hides, cotton, wheat, corn, fruit, iron, petroleum, copper, lumber, hogs, sheep, horses, mules, wool, dairy products, sugar, tobacco, oats and hay. Booklets of "Old Ironsides", with watercolor covers showing the American shield and a picture of the old ship, have been completed by pupils of the eighth grade at St. Joseph school. The booklets contain the poem, "Old Ironsides", a biography of the author, an analysis of military and naval terms, synonyms of words used in the poem, original sentences, explanations of expressions, and at a list of historical vessels. The present division of the visible stars into star-groups, or constellations, is believed to have been made by the Babylonians about 5,000 years ago.
